Larry Elder: Governor of California

Larry Elder is the perfect candidate to turn California back into one of the United States

“Millions of Americans.” declared Dallas megachurch pastor Robert Jeffries in 2017, “believe the election of President Trump represented God giving us another chance—perhaps our last chance—to truly make America great again. Our job was to elect him once God showed us the way. We thank Our Lord to this day that we did. We do love Trump!

I had once wanted Donald Trump to run for Governor of California. Think about the most messed up state in the nation. The state of the state of California reminds us of the condition of the country when Trump took over for Obama in 2017. The Trump White House was surprised that there was silverware and other items remaining in the residence after what happened when the last Democrat (Clinton) left the White House

Donald Trump would have been the perfect candidate but it is not his time or California's. Larry Elder, on the other hand is another great man like Trump and he is our best choice now. There are some other good candidates but none with as much heart and courage as Larry Elder. Black Conservatives are not a dime a dozen and Larry Elder is a zillion dollar candidate. He is the real deal and he loves California, his native state. Other than Trump himself, I cannot think of a better person to straighten out California.

Larry Elder is ready to take it all on and win for America. He alone is prepared and determined to straighten out the mess in California. And I mean mess, starting with Pelosi's San Francisco. Between 2011 and 2018 San Fran experienced a massive increase in reported incidents of human feces found on public streets. San Fran is not the only city. Residents would relish a return to more natural days when it was just bird poop and Seagull droppings that were their worst fears when walking.

With his contacts in conservative media and CPAC, besides cleaning up the city as we know, the poop would have no chance with Larry Elder in control. Think about the problem with Silicon Valley – Facebook, Twitter, Google, Apple, etc. With California as each of their HQ state, what a great job Elder can and will do for us fighting these tyrants without even relying on the Federal Government.

Elder says the first task is to recall the arrogant governor who thinks the people will reelect him after he messed up California so badly. Elder cites that Newsom imposed the most restrictive COVID mandates in the country—and then proceeded to ignore them when it came to him. He notes that “Californians lost their jobs, their businesses and the kids lost a full year in school education, all in defiance of the very science that Newsom and his cohorts said that they would follow. They didn't. Larry Elder will keep his promises.

“I will make clear that I am the best man to replace this tyrant. I am a native Californian, but I too grieve at what is happening to the state. I have something that neither Newsom nor any of the brood in Sacramento possess—that's Common Sense. This is sadly lacking, under this smug, corrupt governor. To unseat this tyrant, I could use your help. I won't let you down.” Would it not be great for us all to wake up and find Larry Elder doing for California what Donald Trump did for the whole country in four years. We need Larry Elder Now!

Preface:

There are many of us who, after crying out for relief for our country for eight years, believe in our hearts that God's answer to the country of America was and is Donald Trump. The people have learned to love this President as God's gift. It was up to US again to make sure we made the most of God's great gift. More than enough of us voted again for Donald J. Trump for Term # 2 but let's just say that America had a bad fraud storm arising at the same time.

God always has a plan. California has always been the most beautiful of the country's states. Now it is in bad shape because of bad government. The notion of an effective plan with Larry Elder for Governor of the state of California makes a lot of sense and Californians would be smart to take God up on his offer. First Trump, now Larry Elder. We are so glad he is a candidate.. Thank you Lord.

There is only one Donald Trump but Larry Elder is as close as we can get to the Trump magic. He is a real man. Governor Arnold we be the first to say he is not a girly man. s Larry Elder, when he gets through the gauntlet prepared by California Democrats to thwart his opportunity to run, will be on the ballot and he may very well challenge Ronald Reagan as the best governor ever for the state of California. Thank you Lord for the opportunity

As noted in this book's description, "Millions of Americans." declared Dallas megachurch pastor Robert Jeffries in 2017," believe the election of President Trump represented God giving us another chance perhaps our last chance to truly make America great again." Our job was to elect him once God showed us the way. We thank Our Lord to this day that we did.

That was then, this is now. Another opportunity. Another chance. God has another chance for California. Perhaps it is our last chance to truly make California great again." Our job is to elect Larry Elder now that God has shown us the way. We thank Our Lord that he convinced Larry to answer his calling.

Think about the most messed up state in the nation. The state of the state of California reminds us of the condition of the country when Trump took over for Obama in 2017. As I have said numerous times, The Trump White House was surprised that there was silverware and other items remaining in the residence after what happened when the last Democrat (Clinton) left the White House. Some say Newsom is worse than Clinton on a bad day.

Those of us who watch Larry Elder on Fox, AON, and NewsMax, as one of the major voices of goodness in the country know in our hearts that the list will be long of all the good things Larry Elder will bring to California. This book introduces a number of items that will return California to prominence by being a great place for Americans to live.

Larry Elder in four years will really help out the Golden State. It is a natural. It can be done but not with Newsom, who has proven to be a bad joke in office. Larry Elder is already a successful television personality and a fine man. He will have his time to straighten out the mess in California. And I mean mess, starting with Pelosi's San Francisco. Then, he will have earned your vote for additional time.

Between 2011 and 2018 San Francisco experienced a massive increase in reported incidents of human feces found on public streets. San Fran is not the only city. Residents would relish a return to more natural days when it was just bird poop and Seagull droppings that were their worst fears when walking. No kidding!

Besides cleaning up the City and the rest of the state, for we know the poop would have no chance with Trump in control, think about the problem with Silicon Valley Facebook, Twitter, Google, Apple, etc. With California as each of their HQ state, what a great job Larry Elder will do fighting these tyrants without even having to rely on the Federal Government. Check out his platform. It is what you and I would do if we were to be governor of California.

Richard Grenell, a fierce ally of former President Donald Trump and a fixture in MAGA politics, would also be great for the job too. He recently dropped out because with Larry Elder in the race, the voice of good Americans is already being heard.

Just like many of us believe that Donald Trump got elected because a higher power whispered in the individual ears of millions of Americans. That voice said that together in his election, we could all make a difference, and Donald Trump would become that difference. That is the same voice urging all of us to support Larry Elder. The people can trust this self-made man to do what is best for California and America. Larry will not do the bidding of slimy politicians or political donors and hacks. He people will not be disappointed.

Donald Trump was the only candidate for president who offered Americans a breath of fresh air from the stodgy, bossy, establishment elites in both the Democratic and Republican Parties. In the forty candidates to replace Gavin Newsom, including Newsom himself, there is not a one with the credentials and character of Larry Elder. I have said because I believe Larry Elder is God's last chance for California. Would it not be great to wake up and find him doing for California what Donald Trump did for the whole country for the last four years.

At the end of the day, when the dust settles, and the election battle is over, the last man standing must be Larry Elder if California is to survive and reach its new destiny. Donald Trump won the 2016 and the 2020 election despite all odds. Larry Elder has a great chance in his home state to take away the governorship from somebody who did not cherish it and he did not cherish working on behalf of the people. We can all change that in the recall election which by definition is California's second chance.

Why would anybody vote for Gavin Newsom after how he destroyed the state in such a short time. They shouldn't and hopefully won't give the tyrant Newsom another chance to hurt the people. Instead, Californians can vote in a return to the Promised Land like that brought forth by the founders of our country. Gavin Newsom knows the secret of bringing back the hell hole of the last several years and nothing more—no improvements. Newsom promises to bring it all back to an unsuspecting public who the Democrats are trying to have the forget that they already know the poor results they will get for sure. Hopefully Californians will object as a state.

We once asked What would America be like with Joe Biden in charge? Now we are living through that nightmare. Hopefully God will speed it up. With Newsom, we know things will be worse than Biden-like. They will be Newsom-like and Californians are smart enough to remember the sting of his last years. Please do not give him another chance to ruin your life.

We have to bring the closest thing to the master back in this recall election. Would it not be a great shot in the arm for us all to have a new Governor in the spirit and packaging of Donald J. Trump. I am talking about Larry Elder, a simple man with a big plan to reinvigorate a great state. Elections sure do have consequences.

Having Larry Elder in Sacramento would get California going on a quick recover. It would give all Californians, while all other Americans are watching, the confidence we need that things will be better.

America needs Larry Elder—a businessman and a great negotiator to compete in this competitive world without being pushed around by Washington D.C.

The GOP today is still full of losers and babies who won't even keep their vows made in the pledge to support the Party's own nominee. No wonder the prior president and the current Biden incarnation, and the royal Gavin Newsom think the people are willing to get it on the chin. That's what Newsom delivered in his years in Sacramento while he treated himself as an emperor.

Californians must care more about living conditions in the state. Putting back a poor leader will assure same-ole same-ole and contribute to the further demise of the state. His sad agenda is well known and it receives no interference from the wimpy GOP in the state or at the federal level.

I sure hope you enjoy this book and I hope that it inspires you to continue to take action. Now that Larry Elder has heard the California call, let's not blow it. Give Larry the opportunity he needs to help us all. I hope this book in some ways helps you look at things differently.

Together, with the help of Californians, we can help make this state a better state and make the US a far better country. We should smile as we accomplished our first and best objective. We elected Donald Trump as our president once. Now, we must support his hard work, elect Trump's friend and compatriot, Larry Elder him for Governor.

Only the voters can get those wicked people out of Elder's way by electing representatives in future elections from the Republican Party who will work with the Governor to make the state of California Great Again. Thank you

Chapter 1 Larry Elder to be Governor of California!

I bet he'll be as good as Trump in office

I am thrilled that Larry Elder is positioned to be California's Next Governor

Larry Elder has been in the California gubernatorial recall race for just a few weeks and just days ago after being denied a place on the ballot he had his candidacy approved by a California Judge. Despite his relative newness to the race, Larry Elder, the best candidate is already leading the race.

Elder is leading the field of candidates running to remove California Gov. Gavin Newsom from office by way of a recall election scheduled to take place on Sept. 14, according to a new poll released Wednesday.

The Inside California Politics and Emerson College poll found California voters favored Elder by 10 points over all other candidates when asked which of the recall candidates they planned to support.

Speaking with KRON-TV Wednesday evening, Elder was elated. He said that he had announced his candidacy earlier this month, and had thus not been a candidate in the race to recall Newsom for long. Elder credited his public profile as a nationally syndicated radio host with his fine showing in the poll. It is reflective of the fact that Californians have had enough Newsom to last a lifetime.

"I think the reason I've done so well is because I'm pretty well-known in this state," Elder said. "People know what I stand for and know what I believe."

Before Elder got in the race, in the last few weeks, I had been personally disappointed that former President Donald J. Trump had not taken my suggestion and put his hat in the race for California Governor in the recall election. My suggestion was for Trump to take a year or two off from concentrating on the 2024 presidential race and run the state of California as Governor for two years. Can you imagine all he could have done especially with Big Tech and the border crisis. Wow!

My disappointment did not last long. I am very familiar with and very impressed with Larry Elder, who is a lawyer and a great conservative talk show host and a great guest on the cable Channels--Fox, OAN, and Newsmax, as well as radio. When Larry entered the race, it did not hit me at first because I had my own plan for Trump. I had the former president my suggestive book "Donald Trump for Governor of California,” so I knew he knew what I was thinking for his future.

Clearly the former president is concentrating on the court challenges to the stolen election as well concentrating on his 2024 candidacy including keeping big tech at bay so they cannot work to steal another election from him. I salute Trump for his decision but he surely would have won and he would have shaken up California in a very positive way.

The good news for Californians is that they can still have their cake and eat it too with Larry Elder as their governor.

Larry Elder has the same moxie as former president Trump and he has the same thoughts on a conservative platform for America—just as Trump. For California, he will get rid of all the anti-people legislation and to the extent he can, he will advocate for the policies that Biden has ended. His objective is to get America back on trap in all areas and to help California break back into a culture like the days when Marxism and progressivism were not the order of the day.

Take a look at Biden's executive orders later in this chapter. Larry Elder is for a return to the policies of Donald Trump that Joe Biden has reversed. If he were able to positively affect that list of orders, it would be a great accomplishment. It is Larry Elder's objective to do exactly that to a pre-Biden, pre Newsom status. Of course we are talking about the Keystone Pipeline, border policy, the terrorist travel ban, immigration, Iran policy, Russian pipeline. WHO payments etc. reversal, etc.

Here are the major areas affected by Biden orders:

- ✓ Coronavirus—Two policy reversals and thirteen new executive orders
- ✓ Immigration—Ten policy reversals and two new executive orders
- ✓ Equity—Two policy reversals and eight new executive orders
- ✓ Economy—Two policy reversals and four new executive orders
- ✓ Environment—Two policy reversals and three new executive orders
- ✓ National Security—Zero policy reversals and five new executive orders
- ✓ Other—One policy reversal and two new executive orders

- ✓ Health Care—One policy reversal and one new executive order
- ✓ Labor—One policy reversals and one new executive order
- ✓ Census—One policy reversal and zero new executive orders
- ✓ Ethics—Zero policy reversals and one new executive order
- ✓ Regulation—One policy reversal and zero new executive orders

All Americans know that newly inaugurated President Joe Biden, like a wildcat sniffing an opportunity to kill some prey, signed a flurry of executive actions in his first 100 days in office. American have been polled on what they think and are not happy. Biden is moving the US backwards.

Supposedly his orders were primarily aimed at curbing the coronavirus pandemic and dismantling many of former President Donald Trump's policies. But in fact, what they were was the first installment of his socialist / Marxist agenda. The regular people are not happy with his policy's or him or his Veep. Larry Elder is not happy. The negative impact of this change on the country was felt immediately. It's like Biden had forgotten about his promise to unite America. Maybe he was only kidding. Humph!

Biden took the country from one of the best in the world to a country heading for bad news. The executive actions upset all of the working people, especially those depending on the completion of the pipelines. It cost American jobs. Biden used his new power to get back at Trump even in areas in which Americans paid a big price.

He halted funding for the construction of Trump's border wall. He reversed Trump's travel ban targeting largely terrorist countries; he imposed a mask mandates on federal property; he canceled the Keystone XL pipeline; He ended the federal use of private prisons and he also reversed Trump's ban on transgender Americans joining the military, etc. etc. etc. – all bad stuff.

Americans learned over the first 100 days that Biden does not enjoy being among other Americans. Joe Biden seems to have found a bunker like that in Delaware in the White House. Nobody knows where. During his 100 days of life on Pennsylvania Avenue, he was seldom heard and had no press conferences. He likes it that way even though it is unusual for a president to keep his thoughts on matters of importance to himself.

As noted above, in his first 100 days in office, Biden signed more than 60 executive actions, 24 of which are direct reversals of Trump's policies. Believe it or not, he does not like Trump and he gets a good feeling each time he does away with a highly successful Trump policy.

He defends his record executive actions as necessary to undo what he considers "bad policy" inherited from Trump, especially on immigration. Most Americans disagree with him but the Democrats being in control of the messaging of Big Tech will not permit a frank discussion of any of these issues.

As you can see, 10 of his 12 actions on immigration are reversals of Trump's policies. Biden is quoted: " And I want to make it clear — there's a lot of talk, with good reason, about the number of executive orders that I have signed — I'm not making new law; I'm eliminating bad policy," Biden said as he signed a series of actions on immigration from the Oval Office on February 2, 2021 about two weeks after inauguration day. .

“What I’m doing is taking on the issues that — 99% of them — that the president, the last president of the United States, issued executive orders I felt were very counterproductive to our security, counterproductive to who we are as a country, particularly in the area of immigration.”

Sure Joe! Like America believes anything you say.

New President Biden takes early lead on executive actions

From day one because of his orders and actions, Biden was in the news every day but he was nowhere to be seen or heard for the first 100 days. So far, Biden has signed more executive orders and memoranda than any of the last three presidents, when comparing how many each had published in the Federal Register through April 30 of their first year in office. The list does not include corrections or clerical memos, which include delegations, designations and certifications.

You and I and the wall, have all judged Biden already. He is a poor if not completely incompetent president. With him having three and a half years left, since he learns nothing from experience, his policies are getting worse not better. It is hard to see life moving along in America in a positive way with him as the captain of the ship.

We cannot control that nor can we control what the control-freak Democrats will do next at the national level.

But, we can concentrate on winning whenever we can. That will help. The first order of business is to elect Larry Elder as the chief executive of California. He will be a fine governor.

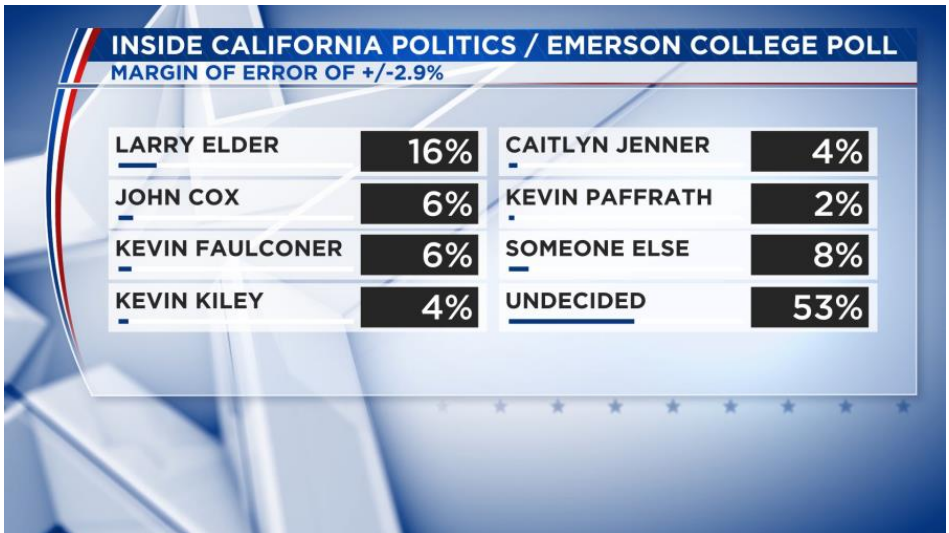

Larry Elder leads the race to replace Newsom in recall election, new poll reveals.

As noted previously, an exclusive Inside California Politics / Emerson College poll revealed that conservative talk radio host Larry Elder, the candidate I am supporting 200% is leading the race to replace Governor Gavin Newsom when he is recalled by voters.

The exclusive new statewide poll of more than 1,000 registered voters, which has a margin of error of +/-2.9%, asked respondents who they would vote for to replace Gov. Newsom. Elder led the pack at 16%, with John Cox and Kevin Faulconer trailing behind both at 6%. A large majority of respondents remain undecided. Consider this question in the poll and see the results below:

Which candidate would you vote for to replace Gov. Gavin Newsom if he is recalled?

1. Larry Elder: 16%
2. John Cox: 6%
3. Kevin Faulconer: 6%
4. Kevin Kiley: 4%
5. Caitlyn Jenner: 4%
6. Kevin Paffrath: 2%
7. Someone else: 8%
8. Undecided: 53%

Though the Democrats have already tried to throw Larry Elder under the bus for keeps, a Sacramento County judge on Wednesday ruled California's Secretary of State Shirley Weber must put Elder on the ballot as a candidate on the final certified list of candidates. That is good news for California.

The decision came after Elder, who just last week announced he was running in the recall election, said he was suing over a decision by California election officials to block him from running in the race, saying he's the target of political "shenanigans" by Democrats. He is.

Earlier this week, Elder said he filed all the necessary paperwork to qualify for a slot on the ballot, including over 300 pages of tax returns that supposedly are required to become a candidate. Despite attempts to comply, Elder was not included on the preliminary list of 41 candidates running in the recall election.

“We’ve complied with everything the secretary of state has required of us,” said Elder, a popular voice on the political right whose show is nationally syndicated. “The politicians in Sacramento know I’m the only candidate who can beat Gavin Newsom. They are afraid, and they are using whatever shenanigans they can to try to trip me up. It won’t work.”

Elder won his case.

Here is some more about the election scenario:

“Frankly, this action by the secretary of state is not simply unfair and absurd but a dangerous and unconstitutional precedent,” offered Elder, who also is an attorney.

When Larry Elder announced his candidacy last week, he immediately became one of the most recognized Republicans in the race, and the main target for an offensive by Democrats.

“Neither the California Constitution nor the (state) elections code provide specific replacement candidate qualifications and requirements for gubernatorial recall elections,” the election agency said.

The way it will work is as follows:

With the election less than two months away, election officials already are arranging for ballots to be printed. Mail-in ballots go out next month.

Voters will be sent a ballot with two questions: Should Newsom be recalled? And who should replace him? If more than half of voters say “yes” to the first question, then whoever on the list of potential replacements gets the most votes is the new governor of the nation’s most populous state.

The recall election is scheduled for Sept. 14.

Chapter 2 Larry Elder: As Good As It Gets

Larry Elder is certainly about as good as you could get as a candidate for public office. He would be a breath of fresh air and simply a great Governor for the state of California. Most people know of him in his role as a conservative talk show host and it is tough not to be impressed with Larry Elder and all of his many talents.

His likeable personality and his powerful capabilities in critical areas have not gone unnoticed by the powerful elements of the California Swamp. They have identified him as their number one threat to the reelection of Gavin Newsom. For Californians, this should be a signal that Elder would be a great addition as the leader of the Golden State.

Elder was a later entry in the game but he had plenty of time to spare when he finally made up his mind. His paperwork was completed and it was submitted early. And on-time. Nonetheless, on Saturday, July 17, the California Secretary of State Dr. Shirley N. Weber was not pleased with Larry Elder for an unexplained supposed error in his tax record submission. Humph, really!

When on Saturday July 17, Dr. Weber released a list of 41 candidates running in the recall election targeting Democratic Gov. Gavin Newsom, it was surprising who had not made the list. Well, golly, if it wasn't the Democrats' perceived main threat to Gavin Newsom's reelection in the person of conservative radio talk show host Larry Elder.

Elder, a well-known name in California and across the nation as a Republican and as a regular guest and host on Fox News, after a lot of thought, had announced his candidacy on July 12, bringing a well-known voice on the political right to a Republican field trying to oust Newsom.

Strangely, despite being known to officials, with no warning, he was not on the list of accepted candidates released by the Secretary of State . Somehow, he had not met the requirements to be placed on the Sept. 14 ballot. It is a conundrum for the politically lame but not for anybody who has seen the Dems in action. s Clearly Elder has become Democrat public enemy #1. They blocked him from running pending the results of a lawsuit he filed.

Ying Ma, an Elder campaign spokeswoman, said that despite this apparent obstacle, she expected him to be on the final list of candidates when finalized. "Our campaign submitted every document required by the Secretary of State and the Los Angeles County Registrar" to qualify for the ballot, she said in a statement.

It wasn't immediately clear to any pundit what requirement Elder failed to meet. Elder supporters immediately saw this as a sign that the Dems are worried about Elder as a candidate who is so well known that he can beat Gavin Newsom, and maybe even by a lot.

An analysis of the candidates tells a story of a lineup that runs from the famous to the anonymous and includes 21 Republicans, eight Democrats, one Libertarian, nine independents and two Green Party members. Ironically, Newsom forgot to register himself in the election as a Democrat but he clearly is.

The total number of candidates was smaller than many pundits had expected — some early predictions envisioned a parade of over 100 contenders on the ballot. The Governor, the last recall victor in California, has now returned to the talk show circuit. This is a serious election.

As noted in the introduction, I had originally tried to coach President Trump into putting his hat in the California Gubernatorial ring. I figured in about two years, after orchestrating a great recovery for the state, he could turn it over to somebody else and run for the presidency if he chose. Think of all he could have gotten done.

Despite that, I am encouraged with Elder in the recall race because the priorities that he has announced happen to line up perfectly with Trump's priorities for the nation.

Larry Elder immediately took action that is hardly ever done by sideline expert wimpy Republican leaders. He fought back. He is not a Congressman but should be. Nonetheless, conservative talk radio host Larry Elder has sued the State of California over the decision election officials made, which in essence blocks him from running in the September recall election. There is a lot at stake.

The recall is expected to oust Gov. Gavin Newsom. Elder is 100% correct when he charges that he is the target of political “shenanigans” by Democrats. Coincidence? Hah! Eliminating a good opponent is an easier way to win when the alternative is to finance and run an effective campaign.

Democrats are the masters of corrupt elections, They are at it again.

Larry Elder has no problem talking to the press or defending himself in court. The Republican said in a statement late Monday July 19, that he had filed all the necessary paperwork to qualify for a slot on the ballot, including over 300 pages of tax returns that are required to become a candidate.

But the Democratic secretary of state's office did not include Elder on a preliminary list of 41 candidates last weekend, saying he filed incomplete information on those returns. Really!

Elder's campaign said he sued Monday, seeking an order from a court in Sacramento that would require Secretary of State Shirley Weber to list Elder as a candidate on the final certified list of candidates, scheduled to be issued Wednesday.

That is today as I write, but there has been no announcement so far. This, the first chapter of this book will be long completed when that decision is made. Dems won't take a yes verdict sitting down. Republicans never seem to care enough to fight.

Here is some of the banter in the press:

“We’ve complied with everything the secretary of state has required of us,” said Elder, a popular voice on the political right whose show is nationally syndicated. “The politicians in Sacramento know I’m the only candidate who can beat Gavin Newsom. They are afraid, and they are using whatever shenanigans they can to try to trip me up. It won't work."

"Frankly, this action by the secretary of state is not simply unfair and absurd but a dangerous and unconstitutional precedent," said Elder, who also is an attorney.

Ironically the Dems have replaced Elder already. In fact, the secretary of state's office on Tuesday 7/20, added another name to the list, making it 42 replacement candidates in the Sept. 14 contest. It wasn't immediately clear why Democrat Armando "Mando" Perez-Serrato was a late addition.

If Elder fails to make the ballot, it would be a setback for recall organizers who hoped for a large field of prominent candidates to attract voters. When Elder announced his candidacy last week, he immediately became one of the most recognized Republicans in the race, given his years on talk radio and frequent appearances on Fox News.

In a statement, Weber's office said the agency applies the same criteria to each candidate that seeks elected office.

The list of candidates issued "did not include Mr. Elder and others that failed to comply with those requirements. This is the first election where the gubernatorial candidate tax-disclosure law has been applied."

Elder is facing a narrow window of time for the court to make a change. With the election less than two months away, election officials already are arranging for ballots to be printed. Mail-in ballots go out next month.

Other Republicans who qualified to run include former San Diego Mayor Kevin Faulconer; reality TV personality and former Olympian Caitlyn Jenner; businessman John Cox, who was defeated by Newsom in 2018; and state lawmaker Kevin Kiley.

Elder's campaign argued that under state law, Weber has the authority, if not the duty, to “fix” any redaction errors for the public. The campaign said Weber’s office has not informed Elder of its specific objections to the filing of his tax returns and added that Weber was “effectively engaging in voter suppression” by denying voters the ability to choose Elder.

The campaign also said Weber's decision violates the equal protection clause of the California Constitution because Newsom did not have to comply with the same tax return disclosures.

“I am waging a legal battle to run as the candidate for Californians who are tired of the partisanship and entrenched interests of Sacramento. I fully expect to be on the final certified list of candidates,” Elder said.

Voters will be sent a ballot with two questions: Should Newsom be recalled? And who should replace him? If more than half of voters say “yes” to the first question, then whoever on the list of potential replacements gets the most votes is the new governor of the nation’s most populous state. With numerous candidates and no clear front-runner, it’s possible that someone could win with less than 25% of the votes.

The push to oust the first-term, Democratic governor is largely rooted in frustration with school and business closures during the coronavirus pandemic that upended daily life for millions of Californians.

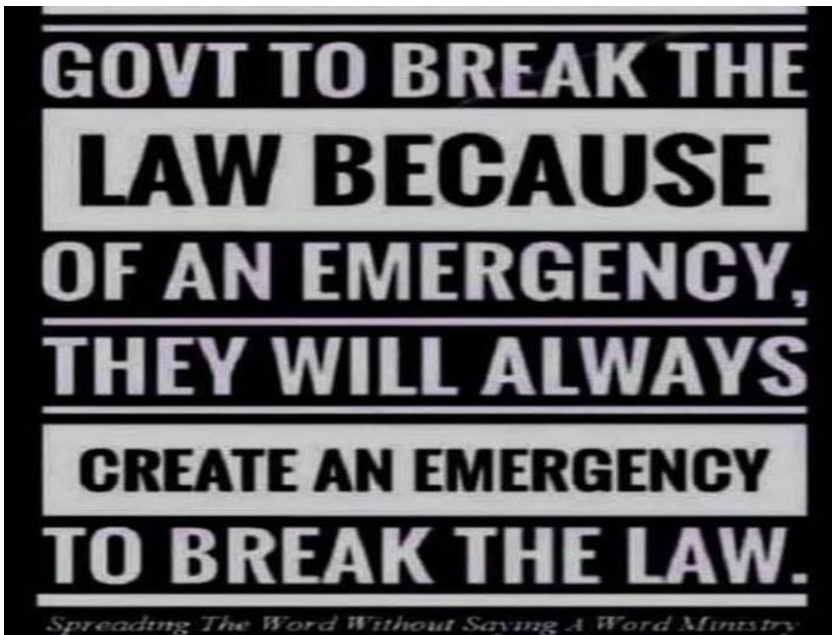

In the lawsuit, Elder raises the issue of whether the requirement for candidates to release their previous five years of taxes is legally valid. He points out the 2019 law on which it's based applies to a "primary" election, but the secretary of state "unilaterally" imposed it on a recall election.

A statement from the secretary of state said the agency adopted the same approach as was used in the state's 2003 recall election, when the basic requirements for replacement candidate qualifications were based on those for primary elections.

"Neither the California Constitution nor the (state) elections code provide specific replacement candidate qualifications and requirements for gubernatorial recall elections," the agency said. In a few pages well have a few chapter closing items. Check them out. There is a sharp poster coming up. I ask you to think about how the Newsom government in California treated the COVID pandemic. Think about it. Check out the poster. Make sure he does not survive the recall.

July 13, 2021, Elder speaks to supporters in Norwalk, Calif.

The rest of us must show our lack of support for the “bull” government officials in charge throw at us in their agenda. Don’t support them and for God’s sake never vote for any of it.

Update on the Elder v California lawsuit

I kept checking the Internet while I was writing this chapter yesterday but there were no updates. Today the results of the court session are all over the news. Justice prevailed and Democrats were called out for their nasty shenanigans.

I was very pleased on Thursday, July 22, to find that a fair-minded California judge on Wednesday cleared the way for conservative talk radio host Larry Elder to join the field of candidates for the upcoming recall election. The objective of course of the recall is to remove Democratic Gov. Gavin Newsom from office. Now that the judge did his part, it is up to us to do ours.

Elder scored a swift court victory in Sacramento, where he challenged a decision by state election officials to block him from the September recall ballot. It was a nasty volley by the Secretary of State because she fears Larry Elder is the best candidate to defeat the former Governor Gavin Newsom.

In a tweet, Elder wrote, “Victory! My next one will be on Sept. 14 at the ballot box.”

He added: “This isn’t just a victory for me, but a victory for the people of California. And not just those who favor the recall and support me, but all voters, including many who will come to know me.”

Superior Court Judge Laurie M. Earl disagreed with a state decision that Elder failed to meet requirements to run in the election.

Under a new requirement, candidates for California governor must publicly release tax returns for the five most recent years to qualify for the ballot. The rule was passed in an effort by Democrats to force then-President Donald Trump to release his tax returns during the 2020 election.

A court struck down the presidential requirement but left it in place for gubernatorial candidates.

But this judge determined the rule didn't apply to recall elections and, even if it did, Elder had substantially complied.

"I don't find that Mr. Elder was required to file tax returns at all," the judge said.

Sometimes the legal system surprises us.

Chapter 3 Larry Elder Is a Gift to All Americans!

Evangelicals Ask God for his help

Deborah Stidom posted this short prayer last year to show her love for our former president. It was on facebook.com/WeLovePresidentDonaldJTrump:

“Heavenly father we pray your healing hands be placed over our President & First Lady so that their bodies overcome this awful disease. We thank you.”

It worked, the Trumps survived.

Larry Elder does not have COVID and from all reports has not had the virus. Larry Elder spent the first few days after the candidates were named making sure he has a place on the Recall Ballot. Now, he is going full force.

before 2024 to become the Governor of California

Other than Trump himself, nobody would serve the people of California better than Larry Elder. Trump being governor of California at first sounded silly to many but think about it. It was a great idea. Having Larry Elder on the ballot is almost the same thing. The people win both ways.

Who better to replace the ineffective hypocritical Gavin Newsom. Before the campaign for the presidency in 2024, think of all the good the president would have been able to do for California and for America in the biggest state of the union—the Golden State.

In reverse order of Ronald Reagan who was governor of California first and then president, Donald Trump is a natural leader who is among the few in America who could turn the country around and then turn around its biggest state and then make the country great again in 2024. Larry Elder is the other person. Larry Elder is a Trump-like persona. He is sharp, courageous and he is all American.

Like others in life, the President can be cheated by Democratic bullies because they are vicious. We have witnessed how the former president was cheated without the benefit of a Supreme Court hearing. We learned in the first 100 days that Joe Biden is a terrible president. It has been just six months in office. The press and the White House are covering up for all of Biden's gaffe's.

Having Biden as president is an albatross on the country. It is like asking the leader of the free world, whoever it may be to blindfold themselves and tie their arms behind their back and then go about their business.

When Biden makes mistakes and he makes mistakes every day, they are doozies. Because of Biden's cognitive and other disabilities, he should step down. Even Trump haters now miss Trump's decisions and his decisiveness. Putting Biden on the world stage is a detriment to the security of the country.

Unlike Biden, Newsom at least made his many errors in judgment with full cognition. With Gavin Newsom, the last thing the people need is for him to be "baaaaaack" after the recall. Larry Elder is the best person to stop that for all of us. Larry Elder will save California.

Chapter 4 A Word from Larry Elder

The Next Governor of California

Larry Elder: I subscribe to the Walter Cronkite philosophy. I'd love to serve. I'd hate to have to run. I just don't believe I have the stomach, the temperament, the personality, the drive, the willingness to deal with these "doofi" in Sacramento for the next four years of my life. Have I exhausted all of my excuses yet?

Newsom has made those excuses irrelevant.

Here's why I've done a 180.

Newsom and his cohorts are destroying a state that was once a beacon of hope and prosperity,

A state once admired for its public schools, its dynamic economy, and, above all, its people who strive for racial harmony, pursuing a common cause.

Newsom and his cohorts are literally dismantling, brick by brick, the very virtues and values that made California great. He's surrounded by an army of radicals for whom climate change is a religion—and growth and development a villain.

Because of their fierce opposition to growth, the average home in California costs 150% more than the national average.

Because of their radical environmentalism, they oppose building the infrastructure necessary to supply consistent energy and water to a population of 40 million, leaving us with a crumbling system built in the '70's to support a population twice that size.

Crime. Homelessness.

The outrageous cost of living and Newsom's arrogance in handling COVID with headstrong mandates that imposed the most severe lockdown of all 50 states. Ignoring science, he caved to the demands of the teachers unions, while still paying teachers, kept kids out of school while sending his to private schools.

And the radicals' assault on public safety demonizes police officers trying to do their job. Firefighters risk their lives fighting infernos made more frequent and deadly because of poor state land management.

The Sacramento elite enable criminals by allowing them to avoid conviction and incarceration.

I will never sacrifice public safety just to appease a corrupt minority that chants “defund the police” and that falsely accuses police officers of “systemic racism.” But Newsom and his cohorts will.

I will never surrender the safety of the streets to the insanity of “no cash bail.” But Newsom and his cohorts will.

I will never approve releasing 20,000 prisoners under a COVID “early release” program, knowing too many will re-offend. But Newsom and his cohorts—well they just did.

I will work for a fair and firm bail policy. You see, when you reduce the chances of a criminal being caught, convicted and incarcerated—

Guess what? Crime goes up.

This isn’t rocket science. It’s just common sense. And I will never sacrifice the dreams of just one California child to appease teachers’ unions, who denounce parents and families as “white supremacists” simply because they want their kids back in school.

I will never support taxpayer funded schools that indoctrinate children with hate...

That teach white kids are “oppressors”...
And black kids are “victims”?

What happened to judging each other on the content of their character. You see, our national motto is E Pluribus Unum—out of many, one!

And I believe that with all my heart and soul!
The first step on the journey from poverty to the middle-class is education.

How bad are the schools?
Well, it's as if you opened a restaurant, hung a sign outside saying, "come on in—just don't eat the food."

I mean, without decent schools there can be no "equity,"
The radical's favorite word!

The answer, school choice. Let the money follow the child.
We have choice in higher education, why not in K-12? Well, it's because the powerful teachers' unions literally own Newsom.

I will literally fight for charter schools that so terrify
Newsom and his cohorts.

My dad came to California back in 1945. He worked two full-time jobs cleaning toilets, before opening up a small restaurant that he ran into his 80's. My dad believed hard work would achieve the California dream— you know, earning a living, Raising a family, owning a home.

My father, a World War II marine vet, was born in Athens, Georgia, in the Jim Crow south, at the beginning of the great depression. He never even knew his biological father, but he did not use that as an excuse. My parents scrimped, saved. He and my mom raised three boys.

Believe it or not, on my father's income, my mom was able to be a stay-at-home mom, until my youngest brother, Dennis, went off to middle school.

I just checked with Zillow, and the home my dad bought in south-central—which is still in the family—is now worth $600,000. Good news for my family, but an absolute disaster for anybody trying to follow the same path that led my dropout dad into the middle class.

I am a Pico/Union, South-Central boy. I walked those hard streets.

My two brothers and I were motivated by the dreams and goals of my mother and my father—who always taught us this great truth:

Hard work wins.

You get out of life what you put into it. You cannot control the outcome, but you are 100% in control of the effort.

And finally, my parents taught us that no matter how hard we worked, how good we were, how we deal with bad things that happen will define our character.

But their California, well it's fading fast.

The way to restore optimism is to end Newsom's anti-growth policies that drive up the cost of housing.

And even if you're lucky enough to own a home, crime is way up, especially in urban areas.

And your public schools will under-perform compared to the rest of the nation, despite more and more money spent on education.

I have a newsflash for Newsom: Herding the homeless in barracks or hotels is simply warehousing our brothers and sisters who need true compassion to return them to self-sufficiency.

Religious institutions and nonprofits are ready, willing, and able to deal with the underlying problems of homelessness in a compassionate way. Government should empower, not impede them.

California is the worst state in which to do business. Why? High taxes, over-regulation, poor public schools and hostility to job-creating small business.

Now let me tell you what I will do.

I will always be with you. If you can't go into a restaurant, neither will I.

If you must wear a mask, so will I.

I will never use my emergency powers to confine and control any Californian without a clear, science-based explanation.

We are adults who can think for ourselves and do not need to be pushed around by an arrogant governor.

Now, the rap on me, is that I have no experience in government.

And your point is?

Gavin Newsom, is a career politician from “central casting,” who has quote, unquote, government experience. And he is a complete disaster!

I made it from south central, Los Angeles, to an Ivy League university in New England, then a first rank law school in Michigan, became a successful trial attorney in Ohio where I also ran a small business for 14 years, before returning to California.

For nearly 30 years I’ve hosted a Los Angeles-based radio show, now nationally syndicated in over 300 markets. Nearly 1.5 million people have listened to me – and I to them — every day for years.

I’ve learned. I’ve listened.

I’ve debated. I’ve heard. And I’ve grown.

And I love this state.

And I know you do, too. And that is why we’re still here. That is why I want you to stay here, and to build your family. But to do so, we need to take this state back.

You see, I want a government that can at least keep people and property safe.

In the coming days, I will outline my plans, ideas and goals.

Newsom brags about a surplus, never mind the nearly trillion dollars in unfunded pensions. You see, if California were a corporation, the securities and exchange commission would go after Newsom for fraud.

Californians can connect the dots between his extremist policies and...failing schools;

Brown-outs,

Violent crime,

Deadlier and deadlier “fire seasons,”

Homelessness,

Businesses leaving the state and taking their jobs with them.

And especially the rising cost of living.

Imagine. Why are people leaving a state, once the envy of the world, with unrivaled climate, mountains, beaches, deserts forests?

We have it all, but Gavin Newsom has declared war on the middle class.

Californians know we can do better. The problem is Gavin Newsom, our arrogant out-of-touch governor, has got to go. And I hope that I will be the person you choose to be his successor.

Don't feel bad for him. He can always retreat to his winery, you know, the one that remained open during the pandemic. The man has got to go!

Let's do this together because we have a state to save.

Chapter 5 The First Recall of Modern Times

You may recall that Arnold Schwarzenegger won the historic California recall election on October 8, 2003 and Gray Davis did not come close. It was like it is today with Newsom in that there is a consistent tide of voter anger. It was enough to topple Gray Davis just 11 months after the Democrat had been reelected governor. Newsom has about a year left but the anger is so great again that he is about to get ousted. The people decided enough is enough. His one-sided COVID dictates were the straw that broke the people's backs. The people of California learned that they did not matter to the elite in Sacramento.

Please convince me that he can't pull out an upset.

God's placing Larry Elder in the middle of this recall is a good thing for the people. However, if you are an elite in California, D or R, it will be unsettling to have your special perks disappear. Yes, folks, this is bound to mess up the plans of a number of Republicans in the Golden State whose hats are already prepared to be headed into the recall ring.

Even now, California Republicans, eager to recall Democratic Gov. Gavin Newsom could see their chances eroded by longstanding friction between the party's conservative and moderate wings, which only has intensified in the aftermath of Donald Trump's presidency. Larry Elder in the race makes it even more difficult.

The people have to watch not only the sniping from the left but also the right. There is now major disappointment and hurt and not just opportunity that with Larry Elder in the race, the wimpy Republican elites literally have no chance to win the minds and hearts of any thinking Republican.

As a black man from a poor background, Larry Elder's Can-do attitude scares the be-Jesus out of the left and the wimpy Republicans who let California go years ago for their own selfish reason without even a little fight. Elder is a good man with good values and it will not take Californians on both sides long to know that his goodness is contagious and California is set to be the big beneficiary. California is set to be "free at last." And no longer beholden to the elites and the rich and powerful. With Larry Elder directing what goes on in Sacramento, California is destined to be the people's Golden State.

Even Rush Limbaugh, who stayed active even in his last days, accepted that Trump's running in the recall election would more than likely result in his winning all the California marbles. There would be no reason for a rift having any say in who wins. For me, it was a simple switch to Larry Elder who is as good a man as you will find on this earth. Like Trump, Larry Elder will deliver calm and prosperity and greatness to California.

The "R" rift had been on open display in the gubernatorial candidacy of former San Diego Mayor Kevin Faulconer, a Republican centrist who has been endorsed by legislative leaders while being attacked as "liberal" by conservatives in his home county. There is no room for a centrist RINO Republican. Faulconer is now behind by ten points and Larry Elder has just entered the race. Faulconer has no chance now that Larry Elder is in the thick of it. And, folks, that is very good news.

The head of the state Republican Party, Jessica Millan Patterson, was being challenged at a GOP convention in July by longtime conservative activist Steve Frank, who said the state party is attempting to silence conservative voices. Just what we need—Republican infighting with the battle being who can be the most liberal progressive in the California Republican Party. We don't need the elites. Let them stay at the gate on motionless carnival horses.

Folks, this is California we are talking about. After Reagan the Republicans became ineffective and the people threw them out. Let them stay out. Bring Larry Elder in. Larry is proud that he was never a politician. In this he is like Trump whose first elected office was president. If you want to win, in all cases, you better have a great plan. Larry Elder will have a Trump-like plan to bring in his victory.

Some are calling the post recall battle as “California’s version of the national battle for the soul and the future of the Republican Party,” While Trump lost California by more than 5 million votes last November, the state GOP has been emboldened by the prospect of a recall election aimed at Newsom, after picking off four congressional seats from Democrats.

But “just when the Republican Party in California is showing signs of life, as usual it is deciding to cannibalize itself.” Larry Elder comes in above the insider fray and will stop the Republican flesh eating and be the candidate who can deliver a real victory to the people, not to the Party or the politicians. The people have to watch the news because Republicans and Democrats will be firing at Larry Elder because he is just what California needs right now.

Recently Karl Rove, not a friend of Donald Trump or mine for that matter, urged Party members to find a way through their differences in California. You know with a RINO like Rove in the act, California would not be headed conservative under any part of a Rove plan. Have we not learned that? . I am surprised Rove is not trying to get Liz Cheney involved.

A proposed rule change at the convention would have allowed the Party's executive committee of about 100 people to endorse a recall candidate, or hand the decision to an even smaller group, rather than the full delegation of about 1,400 members. It was withdrawn after being criticized as a power grab. Larry Elder, a rare honest man puts an end to the committee deciding anything. Look at how the committee has turned the State over to Democrats. This is our chance and real conservatives and those who think a dose of conservative values is just what California needs right now cannot accept an eleventh hour power grab by Republican elites whether or not they are led by Karl Rove.

I was eager to hear more from Rush Limbaugh about a Trump California gubernatorial, but his illness got the best of him. May he rest in peace. I am sure Rush would be for Larry. Advice to Mr. Elder is to stay away from all the RINO advisors. They can't campaign their way out of a paper bag.

Larry Elder will get spiritual help in the recall election from both God and Rush Limbaugh. My part will be to simply spread the word and this book is one of my best vehicles to do that. I expect it to take about four more days to complete and then it will be available to the nation but more important than that, it will be available to the people of California. It will give them a chance for the future.

Everybody agrees that with a potential recall election approaching, the GOP needs a “a strong, unified Republican vision.” It won’t work having a party boss trying to shove a RINO candidate down the throats of Republicans and Democrats. Because the state is a mess caused by liberal progressives from the far left of the Democrat Party, many would have voted for Trump as the candidate for Governor of California. The same Democrats will vote for Larry Elder, who has similar attributes and a similar platform as to what Trump would bring to the table. It is an opportunity for Californians not to be missed.

The pundits are saying that for long-suffering California Republicans, party infighting could divide their ranks and make it more challenging to oust Newsom because Newsom will be a candidate in the recall and he comes with a bevy of supporters. Meanwhile, they say if no consensus pick emerges as a GOP favorite to replace Gavin Newsom, multiple candidates from the committee could tend to fracture the party’s base. I hope we don’t see that and if we do, it is more reason to stick with Larry Elder as the #1 candidate to lead California to its destiny.

Newsom and company, aka the liberal Dems, are the party of “The whole kind of defund the (police) movement and identity politics and all the goofiness that’s coming from the hard left of the Democratic Party. It doesn't make a lot of sense to put Newsom back in for sure.”

It does not make sense to working-class Americans, Karl Rove said. This one time, Rove is correct. I would not trust Rove, however in his support of Larry Elder. He is a nothing but a Mitch McConnell in waiting. Whatever he is for, I am against.

Consider that Rove is an Anti-Trumper, because of his ties to the Bush's. Knowing that Larry Elder is pro Trump would work against Karl Rove working for him. Larry Elder is the logical best choice for all the people of California. Let's vote him in.

Chapter 6 Trump Came after 8 Years of a Sour Stomach

The Democrats first volley v Larry Elder has been fired. They blocked his ability to get on the ballot. He is a great candidate despite Democrat leadership fearing him as the best candidate. They did the same to Trump and Mitt Romney, who most conservatives once liked.

Mitt Romney in the end was a bad candidate. Look at him today and that statement needs no explanation. His shenanigans recently make conservatives believe that he would have been a very poor president. We were spared but had to endure Obama for four extra years. A better candidate would have defeated Obama.

We might not have noticed much of a difference if he got elected as he stands for nothing other than his own advancement in life. George Bush Jr was not so great a president. I might say that I like Obama better than Romney but upon reflection, I need a little more time to think about that.

As a Democrat, when Barack Obama beat “Milk Toast” Mitt Romney in 2008’s presidential election, though I voted for Romney, I was not too terribly upset that Obama had won his first term. Like everybody else, I knew little about Obama, but he seemed to be quite eloquent in his speech and did not appear to have a racial axe to grind. Boy, was I wrong!

The two-year Senator from Illinois had not distinguished himself in his political career either positively or negatively and being a Community Organizer registered a who-cares on the importance scale. Mr. Obama could talk up a storm and did, and he seemed like he would be a man in office who would preside fairly over America. He was a good bull thrower and threw a lot of it. He got a lot of TV time so much that he gave the public Obama fatigue.

I was not concerned initially. I did wonder however. What the heck is a community organizer? Now I know and the definition itself was a harbinger of negative things to come.

Though from my eyes at the time, but I am white, I did not observe any blatant racism problem in the country for Obama to solve, I felt that the Obama presidency would really be post-racial. He fooled me.

Like I said, Obama was not my choice but I was encouraged at his idea of a post-racial America. I figured finally the race war of the 1860's was behind us. The Negro slaves won that one with the help of the Union Army as I recall. Obama won this one with the help of the Democratic Party and a wimpy Mitt Romney..

I was happy that our go at life at the turn of the 21st century was not like when we had those nasty race riots back in the 1960's when I was a kid. Things had gotten lots better in America. I was pleased that with a man, half white and half black, who identified as a "black" president, also understood the white world. With the stuff he got from his mother's side, we could finally put all of the ill-will about race from the past behind us. Surely there would be good times ahead. I really believed that. Wrong! Buzz! Wrong!

My biggest surprise was that a “black man” would be so obviously biased on behalf of the black population. I knew that God had not told him to be that way. I was shocked to find President Obama to be so obviously one-sided in favor of blacks.

My first glimpse of the President’s innate bias was well on display when on July 16, 2009, when Harvard University professor Henry Louis Gates Jr., was arrested at his Cambridge, Massachusetts, home by local police officer Sgt. James Crowley. It got worse after that.

We had Obamacare and a crushed economy. We never recovered from the great recession. Life was on its way almost preparing the country for needing a good leader. I was surprised that Obama won a second term. Things kept getting worse and America’s leadership in the world was on trial.

I soon learned that whites had little chance in the new post-racial Obama presidency. I looked in the mirror and a white guy was staring back at me. From my eyes, race relations were Obama’s first failure as president. I quickly learned that I could not trust him to do the right thing for America. I was very disappointed for eight years as from my eyes things in general, not just race, got worse, not better. Yet unlike Hillary Clinton and her coterie, I accepted his presidency and wished him well to the extent our goals were in sync.

After having a sour stomach for eight years, when Hillary Clinton promised four more years of Obama, when she chose to take her turn as president, the pain in my gut came back. I knew that I would do whatever I could to help somebody else become president no matter who it might be. I had had my fill. But, I never rioted or suggested that President Obama be impeached.

Donald Trump was not my favorite in the beginning, but he soon became my favorite as I learned that he would not be pushed around by anybody. I like to recall my reaction to Trump when I finally understood him as a breath of fresh air. I was beginning to think that the age of reasonable, human presidents had ended with Reagan.

To support him in his candidacy, in addition to sending in some checks and attending rallies, I wrote at least ten books and a number of letters to the editor in support of the Trump presidency. I gave my books away to anybody who wanted one and brought them to biker rallies such as the one held above Scranton, in Dalton PA. The bikers liked my books. The price was surely right.

At this rally sponsored by Chris Cox and the Bikers for Trump, I put a bunch of books out for the taking to help the cause. My most popular Trump for president book was about 240 pages and it was titled Why Trump? Another book called, "We Love Trump," came several books after God Gave US Donald Trump !!!"

It is one of a number of follow-ups to that very popular book. By the way, my last Trump book from September 2020 is titled, "Trump Assured 2020 Victory." In this book I outlined a sure way for the President to assure his reelection. Then of course I wrote the precursor book to this titled, Donald J Trump: Governor of California. Of course I had not expected the election to be stolen"

In 2016, to show how I really felt about the Trump candidacy and to help others see things differently than what appeared to be the original and continuing drive-by-media thinking, I sent a letter to the local paper, The Citizens' Voice. I titled it God gave us Donald Trump. This letter is shown on my web site.

It is short and crisp and I learn something each time I read the letter I sent. After that little piece ran in the Citizens' Voice, nobody had to guess which candidate I was endorsing.

Like many others, I welcomed a change to times in which America was heralded and not put down. I longed for a period in which the Democratic Party and its minions would not parade around the world apologizing for America and Americans.

As I saw Donald Trump, mostly on the US stage, giving his speeches and rallies and talking about making America great again, I was very encouraged. Believing him, was like believing the Gospel, the word of God, according to one of the four evangelists. For four years, smiled each time I woke up and the period of Trump went on since November 8, 2016. Of course, we had a terrible stolen election that took place on November 3, 2020 and afterwards in a number of states.

I wrote a book about it and then added two more chapters after it was initially published. The book is shown below titled Stolen Election. Chapter 13 was written to show that VP Pence really had a choice and Chapter 14 was written to reflect Peter Navarro's Volume 3 titled Yes, Trump Won.

See the book(s) on Amazon in the form shown on the next page. The Supreme Court wimped about on America and I gave them a tongue lashing in my new hit book, SCOTUS ELIMINATUS. Who needs a Supreme Court that won't take important cases.

Many just recently came to the conclusion that we really do not need a do-nothing Supreme Court. Save budget $$ now & send them home. Now I ask God on behalf of all Americans to make our president receptive to taking the next four years to get stronger.

I will help as much as I can. He could have kept his executive skills sharpened by making California a real part of the country again. But, I am not worried because Larry Elder has similar skills and will do a fine job.

How do you feel. California is too pretty and too prosperous to leave its fate to anybody else. Larry Elder is my man on the scene and I am sticking to my guns, And, then just a year later, we will get a Conservative Congress and in a few more years and Trump is our President again.

Most real people do what they do, believing they will be OK and their families will always be OK. The Democrats in power and the intelligent regular people Democrats who I know, stick by CNN not admitting they hear lies all the time. They believe every word and they argue without facts that their slimy Party is more important than the country— aka, the USA.

They actually present a case that the people who want babies to live and who do not lie about current events are the bad guys. CNN told them to hate Trump with no rationale. Ask them why they hate Trump so much and then test their lies if they even give you an answer.

California has a way out in September. The way out has a name. Larry Elder.

Chapter 7 Is There Too Much Hate in America?

America could really use a dose of Trump Love:

In a book about Larry Elder rescuing California from itself, Governor Newsom has not shown much love for anybody other than himself. What about love? I thought I would begin with a little something that for a long-time was much easier to find than love. I am talking about pure unadulterated Trump Hate. Judging from the blocking of Elder's nomination, the hate has already begun to flow at him and will soon be coming at him full force from Democratic minions in the Golden state.

Such hate was well known in California and throughout the nation for the preachers of the gospel according to CNN. Most preachers and ministers and priests who are tuned in against the CNN gospel would call CNN's preaching, lies. They are mostly bold-faced unequivocal lies.

I think about America's issues all the time and Trump HATE has been bad issue for a very long time. Elder hate is just starting and more will be coming soon but like Trump, Larry Elder must ignore the perpetrators. He has the spirit, like Trump, to persevere. He knows what he wants for California is the right medicine. It is in fact, the only cure. t

We all know that even now, with Trump out of office, the corrupt media keeps the embers alive so they have a straw man in the form of Trump, though temporarily, to help them keep the people upset. Despite their venom, this man, Donald J. Trump has done more for them than lying CNN would ever permit them to believe.

When the Dems stoke up the fire on Larry Elder it will seem like déjà vu because it will be a repeat of their attacks on the former president. Like the former chief executive, Larry Elder can handle the heat. He is built for it.

Hate is way too pervasive in the US today because of the corrupt one-sided Democrat-aligned media. They have aligned with the Democrats and do not present a fair picture. The Dem controlled government now has a set of thugs in big tech to which they are affixed and aligned. It's like they have their own unpaid army which soon will be released in full force against candidate Elder. Larry Elder can expect to be de-platformed any day now.

I was so concerned about too much hate in US life especially v Trump that I wrote a book about that topic in November 2019, a little less than two years ago. See Amazon's ad for it on the next page.

My sister-in law Diane, a very smart lady saw the reality. For years, she did not care for Republicans even though she married one. Then, out of nowhere, she switched to Republican in 2015. Why?

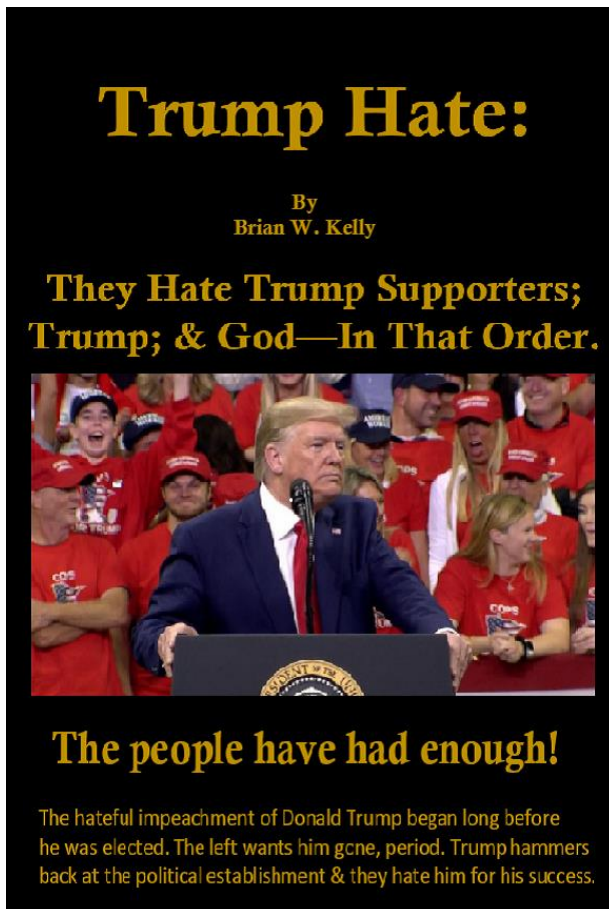

She had had enough. She listened to Donald Trump and she wanted to be part of the Make America Great Again movement. She said she wanted to be able to vote for Trump in the Republican primary in PA with no impediments. She breathes the same fumes as all of us Trump supporters since that time. Only the Democrats whose dads said never vote for a Republican choose to accept the guano that Democrats are now spewing out daily at Americans with a different point of view. That's all that it takes—a different point of view.

Here is the cover of the book I wrote hoping to stop or diminish the hate in America. Here is the book's URL at Amazon followed by its subtitle:

<https://www.amazon.com//dp/B081BCW9BC>

They Hate Trump Supporters; Trump; & God—In That Order.

To show the animus to Trump, the well-wish of well-wishes for his safe recovery from COVID last year came from a former Obama Staffer: “I Hope He Dies!” I am not kidding.

She tweeted and then deleted this short rant after Trump's positive COVID Diagnosis.

In this book we cover Trump's brush with death and COVID.

Sweet??? Now, that is a lot of hate. Ironically the former Party of the people, my party, the Democrats are now the Party of Hate. You can bet that they are whipping up a batch of hatebrew just for Larry Elder.

Hard as it is to believe a staff member to former President Barack Obama deleted that tweet about a year ago, after suggesting that she hoped President Donald Trump died shortly after his announcement that he had tested positive for the novel coronavirus. Her name is Zara Rahim. That my friends is hate, do you agree?

Others did likewise but those of us who have some goodness in our hearts, believe their wishes are against God's command of love. This young "lady" worked in the Office of Digital Strategy for Obama, as well as serving as the national spokeswoman for Hillary Clinton in her 2016 presidential campaign. She added this preamble:

"It's been against my moral identity to tweet this for the past four years, but, I hope he dies," This was the content of Rahim's since-deleted tweet." What a sweet-heart???

That's all she wrote. We're all thankful for that!

Speak your mind but let others speak theirs!

Chapter 8 God Gave the People Trump & Elder to Lead

Does God make mistakes?

If not God, then who gave the people Donald J. Trump

Who is now giving the people of California Larry Elder. It sure ain't the devil.

God has always had a lot planned for President Trump but he had to let Trump get rid of his teenage moxie first, just like he gives us that chance. Remember he without sin should throw the first stone. It is amazing how few rocks would be thrown if today's haters practiced some sobriety on the hate front.

God invented confession for Catholics because he knew he had made humans with imperfections. Since God knows we are not perfect that is why he grants forgiveness. Everybody knows what bad is, right! If you are too dumb to not know that, I would recommend remaining in Newsom's lockdown for the rest of your life.

God decided when he gave COVID-19 to President Trump, that he would also make him better. After having made the president well from the virus in a very short time, we were all looking for God to step in again to guide the big Trump ship to victory after victory with no more stolen elections to set us back. That is in our future.

Here is a little something to remember. God is not Mr. Instantaneous. Everything in due time. This too shall pass.

One day America will be healed but not without the good people of the country and right now California doing their part in the process. Drop the hate. Let's all get on the Larry Elder train and let's win one for the great people of the Golden State.

We prayed that God would make our president well in 2020 and he did exactly that in record time. Now, we need the Lord to direct another emissary, Larry Elder, towards a different set of accomplishments—a victory in California and then assistance in making California part of the United States of America--again. Meanwhile, God is preparing Donald Trump for a victory as the 47th president of the United States.

Only those who choose not to see, cannot see what is happening today with all the hate for this man. Soon they will come after Larry Elder. Elder is against critical race theory and for Trump's border security and he thinks the left's push for white supremacy being the greatest evil is going nowhere because it is not true.

Don't let the Marxists on the far left and Democratic Party leaders speak for you. The left hates America and makes no sense to regular people. The love in America today comes from the right!. Take your pick. Would God prefer love or hate for one of his creatures?

So, today for the halibut and a refresher on what I had written, I went back to the Wilkes-Barre Citizen's Voice Newspaper Archives and I found the letter to the editor that I had sent two months before the 2016 election. I am glad God heard my prayer.

I asked God to hear my prayers again in 2020 along with all the people's prayers as the president's health needed God's touch. God answers prayers in his own time. The fact that Biden is the president does not mean our prayers have not been answered even though we have seen minimal action yet. Remember it was God Who invented time.

And, so, of course we needed the Lord to bring us another four years of Donald J. Trump at the national level as soon as possible. That will be much more accomplishable with Larry Elder leading the largest state in the nation through its needed recovery.

We will get both Trump and Elder because we will persevere in our efforts to win. Yes, God works in strange ways from our perspective sometimes. God is good but he did permit villains to disrupt the truth in the election of November 3, 2020. But we will see that was a temporary setback.

God will not sit by idly next time. I believe that God wants Trump to be the President but he would have been fine with a Trump temporary stop at the Governor's mansion at 526 H St, Sacramento, CA 95814. Larry Elder like Trump is an altruist and a friend of the Lord. Larry has inherited God's wish for a clean and prosperous California. God has now entrusted this to Larry Elder. Let's consider what may be the plan of The Lord.

Perhaps you will enjoy this email as much as I enjoyed rereading it. Those who stand still when they have the chance to act in God's favor often regret their inaction. I am tickled and proud of myself that despite seemingly popular sentiments, I was inspired to write this brief piece in 2016 and I send it along now so others could read it. It applies to Larry Elder in California also.

If I could only open some hearts along the way, perhaps we could diffuse some of the hate from the Democrats and the far left. Are they not the same today? After all, we are all Americans and thus we should all be for everything that is best for America.

Here is the note that I sent:

LETTER TO THE EDITOR / PUBLISHED: SEPTEMBER 11,
2016 WB CITIZENS Voice

There are many billionaires who want things their way on taxes and they figure they will benefit if their lobbyists get to the right politician. Donald Trump is actually running for office as a billionaire. He does not need a job. Yet, he is investing a lot of time in America. He does not need it. But, if he is successful, his kids will grow up in America and he wants it to be the finest country of any possible country ever. Bravo, Donald Trump.

Mr. Trump wants it to be like the America as founded by honest founders. Donald Trump is intrinsically honest. He may round up on some issues in his favor but he is not corrupt. He wants his kids to love him and respect him just like you want your kids to think of you.

We are only on Earth for a short time. Why should we not do our best? I love that Donald Trump, a billionaire who needs me like a hole in the head, thinks I matter. He thinks you matter. He thinks America matters. He thinks God matters. He is right on all points. Unlike you and me, he has the means and the opportunity to really show God and his family what a good man he really is.

We have been waiting for you, Mr. Trump, since Ronald Reagan left us. God gave us Donald Trump. I am convinced that it is up to us to make him our president. We did not know how bad the Bushes were until they went into their recent crying tantrum because they lost. We just know that they were not too good when they had the power. Donald Trump is bombastic, arrogant when he knows he is right, and he is often inartful in his speech when he is upset. However, he, like my father, is a very good man. I welcome the opportunity to cast my vote for him. I thank God for the opportunity.

Chapter 9 God Gave Californians Larry Elder to Lead the Way

I began the last chapter with this question:

Does God make mistakes?

If not God, then who gave the people Donald J. Trump

Who is now giving the people of California Larry Elder? It sure ain't the devil.

Folks, it is God again!. We did not reject Donald Trump in 2016, and we should not reject Larry Elder in 2021. Larry is a special kind of man.

In my research for this book, I began with a long-term appreciation and admiration for Larry Elder. That is a great start. I really like Larry Elder. Heck I even find him credible in his "Relief Factor." Commercials. Along with Leo Terrell, aka Leo 2.0, Elder shares the spotlight as a model as one of my favorite black conservative talk show hosts.

There are a lot of wimpy white guys on TV who disgust me by not taking a stand on major issues. They would do well to model their inner thoughts and conservative chutzpah after Larry Elder and Leo Terrell. Thank you Larry and Leo. Larry and Leo are tough and for that they have our admiration.

So, other than a good feeling, Larry being from California and me from Pennsylvania, I did not really know who he really was but I found out. Nonetheless, my gut told me he was something special. God again guided me to find out who Larry Elder is. I repeat the article below thanks to Larry. Just as God gave us all Donald Trump, He also gave us Larry Elder. I know that makes me very happy.

As I read this 1998 article by John L. Mitchell of the LA Times, the light came on very bright. What a brilliant piece. I feel that I not only admire Larry Elder and I fully endorse him as my candidate for Governor of California, I have been gifted by author John Mitchell with the cold facts upon which to base my strong opinion. Californians are very fortunate to have Larry Elder as a choice their Gubernatorial Recall Race.

I am not trying to be crass when I say that If Donald Trump were black, he would look just like Larry Elder. I mean it. Spiritually, both are great men with similar values though their make-up is different. If you are black or white or purple, and you are not sure of Larry Elder, take a leap of faith, please, and believe John L. Mitchell's words in his great article.

Enjoy Mitchell's once over on Larry Elder. I wish there was more for me to read as it was so thought provoking. I am sure there is someplace and I will find it though I may not include it in this book.

Thank you Larry Elder and John L. Mitchell for such a great insight into the man and what he is all about.

Enjoy!

LARRY KNOWS BEST

JOHN L. MITCHELL IS A TIMES [LA] STAFF WRITER

It was Larry Elder's homecoming and almost no one was glad to see him.

The self-proclaimed Sage from South-Central was about to face the rage of South-Central.

For nearly four years, Elder had slapped many members of his own race in the face on the radio, belittling them as whiners or losers, holding himself up as a model of African American excellence. He'd become a darling of white listeners who seemed to almost gush when they telephoned him on KABC talk radio, astonished to find a black man who not only wasn't going to chastise them, but who also often agreed with them--a black man who declared that race no longer played a significant role in society. You were far more likely to see Larry Elder give a speech at a San Fernando Valley temple than in his native South-Central Los Angeles.

But here he was, on the last day of February, in front of 900 people, all but a handful of them black, in a Crenshaw district theater debating with a militant, dashiki-wearing conspiracy theorist on whether Hollywood and the mass media are racist. The man who loves to play a rock 'n' roll anthem called “I Won’t Back Down” was, as always, spoiling for a fight.

He listened to actress Anne-Marie Johnson as she asserted from her seat in the audience that she was “a living testament” to racism in Hollywood. Johnson, who has appeared in numerous films and sitcoms, was outraged at the recent Richard Dreyfuss comedy, “Krippendorf’s Tribe,” in which Dreyfuss and co-star Jenna Elfman paint their bodies black to make a phony anthropological documentary. “If Spike Lee did a film about Jews and gave them horns and a tail and a yarmulke, do you think it would get a green light?” she demanded.

The crowd was on its feet in support. Elder paused and then, deliberately, began reciting a list of names. “Denzel Washington, Morgan Freeman, Laurence Fishburne, Danny Glover, Samuel L. Jackson, Harry Belafonte, Angela Bassett, Cuba Gooding, Alfre Woodard . . .” He droned through three dozen more names.

“Answer the question! Answer the question!” many began chanting.

”. . . Whoopi Goldberg, Gregory Hines, Ice T, Ice Cube, Tupac Shakur, Halle Berry . . .” He droned through two dozen more.

“Answer the question!”
Elder paused again.

“It sounds to me,” he said, his voice rising over the chanting, stopping a beat for dramatic effect, looking straight at Johnson, “like your career isn’t going that well.”

Meet Laurence A. Elder, a 46-year-old libertarian who delights in turning race on its head.

Elder, a lawyer who owes his Ivy League education to affirmative action, is one of a handful of prominent African Americans--most notably Supreme Court Justice Clarence Thomas and Proposition 209 pitchman Ward Connerly--who are demanding a new, colorblind standard, past injustices or personal contradictions be damned. For Elder to stress his South-Central roots (his parents still live near the intersection where the 1992 riots erupted) and yet reject a racial view of the world is like a bus driver slamming his foot on the brakes. Larry Elder is giving a lot of black people whiplash.

Among his simple, incendiary views, which he preaches four hours each weekday: Affirmative action is wrong. Drugs should be decriminalized. Blacks exaggerate the effects of discrimination. O.J. Simpson murdered two innocent people. Too many African American leaders such as Danny Bakewell, Rep. Maxine Waters (D-Los Angeles) and state Sen. Diane Watson (D-Los Angeles) teach blacks to accept roles as victims.

But what galls his enemies most is that Elder is winning. Late last year, to make time for another host, KABC cut his air time in half. A black-led group spearheading a boycott of Elder's sponsors claimed responsibility. Then Elder's defenders--some from unlikely quarters--rallied.

The American Civil Liberties Union criticized the boycott, and the conservative Center for the Study of Popular Culture spent $400,000 to pepper L.A. cable TV channels with ads depicting Elder as a victim of racism. By early February, KABC restored Elder's full 3-to-7 p.m. time slot, filling him with visions of besting rival KFI's popular afternoon talk team, John Kobylyt and Ken Chiampou. Elder publishes his own newsletter (The Elder Statement) and is a frequent face on national TV news analysis programs.

Against this backdrop, the vision of a Maxine Waters-Larry Elder debate is delicious, but it won't happen. She, like many other prominent blacks, simply ignores him, never returning his phone requests to come on the show (or a reporter's calls about Elder). Why should she boost the ratings of a man who ridicules her by mixing a recording of a barking dog over her sound bites? What does the chairwoman of the Congressional Black Caucus have to gain against a man whose Web site includes a list of "Fifteen Ways to Avoid Being Called an Uncle Tom"? (Examples: See every Spike Lee movie, always agree with the Rev. Jesse Jackson, never question the legacy of federal social programs and always refer to the L.A. riots as an "uprising.")

Elder talks provocatively about many more topics than just race relations. But his iconoclastic wit and intellectual agility make him a particularly attractive voice in a nation that seems weary of traditional racial dialogue. Last year, PBS selected him to host a special on race, and he became the subject of a flattering "60 Minutes" profile.

"Who, other than perhaps Rush Limbaugh and some like-minded middle-age white males," asked an admiring Morley Safer, "would dare air such views--dare say that black leaders should stop whining?"

No matter what race you are, you know a Larry Elder. Larry Elder is the guy in high school whom you could always whip at chess, who disappears after graduation, then shows up on your doorstep a couple years later with a chessboard in hand and asks: "Wanna play?"--and kicks your butt. Eventually it occurs to you that this is about more than chess. This is about coming back home, about payback, about the onetime loser having the last word. You know that list of black stars Elder recited to blunt Anne-Marie Johnson's complaint? That might have seemed like a spontaneous rejoinder, but Elder had compiled it in advance. Nobody was going to checkmate him.

Elder was a bookish kid at Crenshaw High School, the self-described "poop-butt" on whom tougher kids picked, the student at Brown University in the early '70s who resisted the popular black-militant movement. He was the lawyer who didn't come back to South-Central, going instead to Cleveland to work at a law firm and to set up a business.

He fell into part-time TV and radio gigs in the late '80s and returned to Los Angeles as a talk-show host in 1994. He was determined to be different--neither a doctrinaire Democrat nor a Republican, boxed in by neither politics nor race. You would have to accept him as an individual, and this time he would choose the weapons, and they would be words. No matter how much you hated him, you would have to concede that, on the microphone, he could float like a butterfly and sting like a bee:

"I have friends who say: 'Yeah, Larry, we follow young black people when they come into our stores because we find a disproportionate number of young black people shoplift. That's why we do it. Now, I would prefer they didn't shoplift. I want their money, but I'll be damned if I'm going to, based on that profile, not observe when I see three or four black kids come to my store with baggy pants.'

"Now, if I'm a black kid with baggy pants and I'm not intending to shoplift, of course I'm going to be offended. But what I really ought to be offended at is the large number of my peers causing my image to be besmirched-- not the motive of the shop owner. But we as black people are pissed off at the shop owner and we are not pissed off at Jamal, who stole a bag of Doritos the day before that caused this guy to be paranoid about young black men."

There is a sober hollowness about Larry Elder's triumph, an emptiness that parallels his Hollywood Hills home far from South-Central, the home where he lives alone, the artfully decorated, immaculate home with no family pictures on the wall.

This vigorous intellectual voice, buffed for verbal combat, cannot seem to find a worthy opponent. His enemies do not want to play.

Elder insists he is not bothered by the isolation. "I feel my relationship with my listeners is evolving," he says. "My message is a little more difficult to take and I ruffle more feathers than other people who are saying the same old PC stuff. That's OK, I'm going to get there." In the minds of listeners, he believes, "I've gone from 'Larry Elder is a self-loathing black' to 'someone who we disagree with, but who has a right to say what he says. "

Yet the frustration shows. “They don’t want to stand up to someone tough,” he complains duRing a conversation in his home. “Let’s rock! I’ll debate [Nation of Islam leader Louis] Farrakhan any place, any time. Jesse Jackson--your place or mine?”

Elder’s appearance in Crenshaw, sponsored by a local bookstore, matched him against the political equivalent of a has-been fighter, a black nationalist named Steve Cokely. Cokely, a former special assistant to then-Chicago Mayor Eugene Sawyer, is a ‘70s throwback, given to describing the Founding Father s as “a group of cutthroat whites,” whom Benjamin Franklin cleaned up “and made it look like they ran a democracy.” He made a point of thanking Elder for giving him the exposure.

Elder, wearing a gray suit, began his remarks from a table decorated in red, white and blue with a joke about ex-Klansman David Duke that had brought down the house not long ago when he spoke at a West Valley temple. Here, though, the punch line, mocking Duke as an entrenched racist and anti-Semite, brought only a few scattered chuckles, forcing Elder to explain it: No law could make the Dukes of the world disappear, he said. Blacks simply had to concentrate on hard work and education rather than racism.

Once again, Elder drew the line in the sand that makes him a lightning rod for antagonism: As innocuous as that prescription may sound to whites, it aggravates many blacks, who feel that despite hard work and preparation they have been unable to overcome the historical and lingering barriers of racism. Larry Elder may have grown up in South-Central, his black critics say, and his rhetoric fits comfortably around many black kitchen tables, but he will not sit down for a meal. To many, he has the heart of an outsider.

Earl Ofari Hutchinson, a black writer and author of “The Assassination of the Black Male Image,” scoffed at the idea of the debate and blames Elder for alienating so many African Americans, particularly those in Los Angeles’ power structure. “We are not going on to make ratings for him,” he says. “You’re Elder, you look around after three years of sledge-hammering the black community, the only one you can debate is someone from some fringe element.”

In the absence of any takers of consequence, Elder relies on those rare telephone calls from critics and on his occasional monologues, which always end with: “You have just heard The Word.” The Word tends to be an anecdote that illustrates a social contradiction or absurdity, and Elder’s aim for the visceral is Reaganesque.

“My friend once invited me to the corner of Olympic and Vermont. Outside that library there are all sorts of Hispanic kids doing wonderful tricks and flips on their skateboards. Then he said, ‘Let’s go inside.’ Wall to wall, Korean Americans and their mothers, standing room only, nary a Hispanic in the building despite the fact that the area is heavily Hispanic. You with me?

“Now fast-forward 20 years. Who is working the deep fries at McDonald’s and who is vice president of sales and marketing at Merck? That is what matters.”

You don’t hear many of them call up, but Larry Elder has a significant number of black fans. They are more likely to write him letters. (“You are like liver, Larry. When you first taste it, it doesn’t taste that good, but later on you realize it ain’t that bad. I’m happy you have the courage to say what our people need to hear even if they don’t want to hear it.”) Their existence underscores the fact that black America has as many political divisions as any race.

Elder grew up in a house full of those kinds of disagreements. He says he got his head from his father and his heart from his mother. Randolph Elder, 82, is a Republican, and Viola, 73, is a Democrat. (Ask Viola about her son’s suggestion that young black men ought to blame young black shoplifters for shopkeepers’ paranoia and she answers diplomatically: “That was a stretch.”)

Try to pin down Elder to one philosophy and your arms get tired. Who else do you know who invites the Jewish Defense League’s Irv Rubin to his speeches and also agrees with 90% of what Farrakhan says? Who else do you know who thinks everyone should be able to carry concealed weapons but believes the district attorney’s office should file manslaughter charges against a shopkeeper who fatally shoots two robbery suspects after chasing them out of his store? (Elder backed off on that position after many listeners chastised him.)

He says that despite his anti-big-government libertarian leanings, which include his assertion that all drugs should be legalized, he is registered to vote as an independent.

The Elder clan, which moved here from Chattanooga, Tenn., first lived in the Pico-Union area, where Randolph Elder owned and operated a breakfast cafe while working two janitorial jobs. When Larry was 7, they moved to the working-class neighborhood of South-Central that has been the family home for nearly four decades.

Larry was the middle child, different from his two brothers, Kirk and Dennis, the latter of whom abused drugs and died last year at 43. “Larry was serious about school and read all the time,” says his mother. “Once he was reading a book about Dr. Charles Drew [who discovered medical uses for blood plasma]. All of a sudden I heard a big BAM! He had taken the book and thrown it after reading somewhere that Drew had died because he was not allowed to get a blood transfusion because of his color.”

(Drew actually died as white surgeons, who happened to recognize him, worked to save his life, most historians now agree.)

The Elders shared little of their past racial hardships with their sons. “We didn’t want to limit them,” Viola says. “We didn’t want them to use race as a crutch.”

The neighborhood’s sharpest student was also the best friend of the area’s top athlete, a kid named Perry Brown. “We used to ride the bus together to the movies and we had these vocabulary cards, testing each other,” Brown says.

Their friendship taught Elder lessons he continues to recount. One was his belief that Brown’s lack of discipline squandered his tremendous athletic ability. “You don’t get where you want to go just on your merit,” Elder says.

Another lesson, which took longer, was to stop backing down. “I was 67 pounds in the seventh grade and I had my locker between James and Jimmy, two bullies,” he says. “It’s 1964 and Muhammad Ali just beat Sonny Liston. James and Jimmy are talking about the fight, and I’m minding my own business when one of them decides to demonstrate the punch that knocked out Liston. He took his fist, swung it around and bam! Right into my chest. I thought I was going to die.”

Which brings us to the moment of truth, which involves a couple of other bullies who tormented him routinely on his four-block walk home from school. “One time they had me cornered. Suddenly I hear a voice from behind me: ‘Larry, don’t run!’ It was Perry. He ran over and said, ‘You touch Larry Elder one more time and I’m going to kick your ass.’ They looked at each other and ran. They never bothered me again. That was Perry. Perry was the baddest one you ever saw. He didn’t win every fight, but he never backed down. That is what I admired in him. He said, ‘Larry, it is important for you to fight even if you lose.’ ”

These days Perry Brown calls himself Abdul Gaidi and still lives in his mother’s house. He says it saddens him to listen to Elder on the radio because it reminds him that Elder takes for granted the advantage of growing up with two parents, while Gaidi had to grow up largely on his own. “He has this great forum. To me it’s being misused,” Gaidi says. “I try to listen to his show, but sometimes I just have to turn it off.”

Elder exhausted Crenshaw High’s courses, and took a bus to Fairfax High for supplemental advanced classes. In 1970, he became one of a surging number of African Americans entering Ivy League schools under the first wave of affirmative action programs that admitted minority students with below-standard grade-point averages and SAT scores.

“Sometimes I regret that I checked that box” indicating race on his college application, he says when asked about the familiar complaint that he is a hypocrite for staunchly opposing affirmative action. “That doesn’t mean I wasn’t going somewhere.”

At Brown in Rhode Island, he earned a bachelor’s degree in political science. He then went to the University of Michigan for his law degree and moved to Cleveland to work for one of the nation’s most prestigious law firms. He quit after three years to open Laurence A. Elder and Associates Inc., an executive search firm specializing in recruiting and placing attorneys.

In the mid-'80s he began hosting a local weekly PBS television show. One day Dennis Prager, a Jewish KABC talk-show host whose disdain for liberalism had alienated many Jews, came into town as a visiting guest host. The pair struck up a friendship, and Prager eventually helped arrange a job offer that Elder took despite a salary he describes as 75% less than what his Cleveland business was generating. He left behind a crumbling marriage that later ended in divorce.

It didn’t take him long to begin rubbing some African Americans the wrong way. Out of the black community came anonymous fliers accusing Elder of hate speech, describing him as a “White Man’s Poster Boy” and a “boot-licking Uncle Tom.”

The roots of the 2 1/2-year-old boycott are murky. Initially, members of a secretive local group called Talking Drum claimed responsibility for the boycott. Later, the group denied it. But it is clear that the protest is still active.

Several months ago, a reporter attended a Talking Drum meeting at a health food store on Crenshaw Boulevard and watched a man rise before 100 people and hand out form letters addressed to Elder's radio sponsors, demanding they cease advertising on his show because it denigrated blacks. The man refused to answer questions or identify himself.

The impact of the boycott was clearer. KABC estimated that Elder's sponsors canceled about $3 million in advertising during the past two years. All the while, station executives insisted that the boycott had nothing to do with their decision to temporarily cut Elder's air time. The boycott drew criticism from black leaders who usually disagree with Elder. Nevertheless, it wounded him and his family emotionally.

His mother's church of 32 years withdrew an invitation asking him to speak. ("My mother was so upset that she quit.") At his 25th high school reunion, an angry classmate confronted him. "I told him, 'You know, I don't give a f - - - what you think.' "

A Junior Walker and the All Stars instrumental, "Way Back Home," is playing as Elder moves into the last hour of his Monday evening show.

"Buenas tardes, Los Angeles!" he shouts over the airways. "The Court of Radio Free California is back in session!"

Elder wants to talk about the weekend's Crenshaw debate. He has played taped snippets from it several times today, including his confrontation with Anne-Marie Johnson and a remark made by another member of the Crenshaw audience, who asked ominously: "How do you have the audacity to sit up here and support white America? You should be happy that you are walking out of here alive, because there are brothers that are tired of people selling out. And you better watch your back."

There's a lot of love in that room, Elder tells his listeners sarcastically, and as Tom Petty sings, "You could stand me up at the gates of hell, but I won't back down," he breaks to a commercial.

A little later, Ricky, a sympathetic black caller from Los Angeles, comes on the line.

"I was wondering why you decided to go to that place that you knew was bound to be hostile."

"Why do you think I went, Ricky?"

"I think that you felt that someone had to do it. To be honest with you, I'm not a coward, but I probably wouldn't have done it."

"Ricky, that is precisely why I did it. Someone had to do it."

Chapter 10 Does God See Larry Elder as His Best Answer

You bet He Does!

Larry Elder is able and ready to take all that the opposition in California has got and even more. He intends to give the citizens of the Golden State a homeland of which they can be proud again. Nothing less!

It is a fact that you either loved Donald Trump when he ran for President in 2016 and 2020 or you hated him. The Democrats have not yet gotten around to taint Larry Elder so the hate club is not as large and because there are only two months for the whole campaign, it won't be as large. But they will try.

Larry Elder is 69. Since I am 73, I can say that Larry Elder is still a kid though he had been around the block a few times to earn his stripes. He has been doing his thing for almost fifty years. So, in the meantime, the Democrats have had other priorities such as Donald Trump and Ronald Reagan and George Bush to kick around.

Just like Larry Elder, Trump was permitted even by Hollywood to have a successful career working in their backyard. But when he ran for president for keeps, the hands-off attitude for Hollywood types and media moguls ended and they showed their sour stomachs for conservatives.

We saw how far with the help of Democrat operatives they were able to affect his life. Though Trump calls his two "trumped-up" impeachments badges of honor, they were surely not pleasant experiences.

Like Trump, Larry Elder has been in public circles for a long time and in his years, he has not been attacked by the media in any ferocious way. He is no billionaire but has done well enough to have a net worth of about $16 million—not too shabby! The first volley fired by his opponents as they say was their attempt to block him from being able to run for Governor in the Recall election. He won skirmish 1 with the help of an honest California judge.

There is not a ton of time left to tarnish Elder's squeaky clean image by September 14's election, so we'll be seeing pretty soon what the plan is to dismember a good ole conservative talk show host who crawled to a successful life from the poor side of California.

There's 69-years of stuff out there to twist into negatives. He recently conducted a lecture titled: "Truth and Propaganda in Politically Correct America." He also has a book out titled: "The Ten Things You Can't Say in America from St. Martin's Press. The reviews on the book are that it is fascinating, challenging, and spirited. Folks remember when the corrupt Democrat leaders cannot find truthful facts to destroy somebody, recent history shows that they have no problem rewriting history to suit their needs. Yes, they do create facts from thin air to back their statements.

Having the president infected with COVID-19, the love for Trump for a while grew even stronger and Trump appeared even more tender than we already knew he was. Rudy Giuliani hit it out of the park as he described the Trump public's reaction to the president's illness. He said that "Trump did all he could for the people for three years, and now the people through their prayers and their vigils are doing their best to pay back the president for his care for them and the country." Amen!

This is my first Larry Elder book. I hope there are more to come. I have sent some solutions to the country's ills in my over thirty Trump books to the President and I do not recall him ever taking me up on one of my ideas. He does not know me nor does Larry Elder, but I am out here every day doing my best to keep our republic alive and well. .

Trump becoming the Governor of California is not an original idea of mine as discussed in a prior chapter. Blame

Rush Limbaugh in heaven for keeping the notion stuck in my mind. Like they once said about Mattel Toys, If Donald Trump were to run for Governor of California in the Gavin Newsom Recall Election, he would win by a landslide and help California and the whole Country in so doing—and that would be swell. Wouldn't it? The time for that of course is past but here we are with another God-chosen candidate and I am very pleased – Larry Elder.

Just like Trump, Larry Elder is no Obama. That is a very good thing. If you love America, even if you may have trusted Obama, with no good reason, few were ready for four more Obama years with Hillary Clinton as his new name. God protected us from four more Obama years by giving us Donald Trump.

He is doing the same thing for the people of California right now. Instead of Donald Trump to defeat Gavin Newsom, we have Larry Elder, our new savior for the state. We know that it takes a majority vote to remove the governor. Right now, 43% disapprove of Gavin Newsom but everybody seems to have a negative opinion. Then again a lot of people question poll results in modern America.

Larry Elder will beat Newsom and all the other candidates because he is ready to make the personal sacrifice to save the state from itself.

If you do not love Larry Elder—Democrat leaders and the press will mostly be in that category within a few weeks—Elder is an unknown and does not have all of the forgiveness saved up as Donald Trump. In supporters' eyes, “The Donald” can do no wrong. He is actually a good man. Even Trump himself seems to be astonished by this phenomenon. Larry Elder is a very good man also and I am sure he has the mettle to endure the attacks and emerge the victor just like Trump.

Dear God, thank you for hearing our prayers and having Larry Elder pass his first big test against the Democrats. He is on the ballot. After all the weak, wimpy, wobbly Republican leaders, groomed by establishment elitism, who offered little recognition or solutions for the concerns of the American citizens; Larry Elder, my candidate for governor and yours if you are like me, has been a deep breath of fresh air.

Among the Republican electorate, he is so well liked that I am convinced that his approval rating is like Trump, a chart-topping 90% plus. Hey, I approve, and I am a reluctant Democrat.

I happen to be a lifelong Democrat who has been sick of the Democrat Party for at least the last thirty years. I have similar sentiments for the apologetic corrupt anti-American press. At first it seemed unintentional. Now I see it as part of a plan to indoctrinate the American people into believing that socialism and communism and Marxist principles are better than American values.

For America to remain strong, the Democrats and Hillary Clinton needed to be defeated in 2016. They were. Now, the Democrats in Congress and Joe Biden's initiatives must be defeated. Larry Elder is the chosen one to bring back our largest state. I can't wait for that.

America has great potential. It's in there!

My father was one of six Kelly brothers – Martin, Ed, Pat, Joe, Mike, & Phil. They were born from about 1910 to 1925. They were all high-school basketball greats in the 1930's and 1940's. Later in their twenties, the younger five of the brothers played up and down the Wilkes-Barre Wyoming Valley and won their share of many great games against other organized teams. Nobody sat on the bench. There were only five Kelly brothers who played the sport and the bench was always cold.

The Kelly brothers reminded me of the five talent laden Trumps at the conventions. It was overwhelming. There was nobody warming the Trump bench because they were all out winning the game—just like the Kelly boys.

Trump pulled it off when the press was asleep and when they woke up, they knew they had to cheat to beat him in 2020.

Because Larry Elder will prove to be an effective leader, I still have my smile. Nobody can wipe it away.

My smile is ready to grow with the new California Governor, Larry Elder, followed by another four years of President Donald J. Trump.

Say Amen!

Chapter 11 Big Tech Takedown by Larry Elder

Let's start by asking who is Big Tech?

	Google	Facebook	Apple	Twitter	Amazon	Microsoft
Name				×
Gender			×	×	×
Birthday			×	×	×
Phone Number
Email Address

Big Tech is a commonly used term that refers to the major technology firms that to some have gotten too big for their britches. Some polish this up to read “which have inordinate influence” That sure is an understatement.

Heck, Big Tech had the outright gall to censor President Donald Trump. When Larry Elder becomes governor of California, Big Tech will be crying about that decision. With the HQs of Big Tech in California, Elder and company will be able to keep them honest and keep them respecting the 1st Amendment as a California company.

The list of big techies includes Twitter, Facebook, Apple, Google, Amazon, and some even throw in Microsoft for good measure. Having put in 23 years with IBM, I am sure

Big Blue is disappointed that they are not included when people think of Big Tech. After all, IBM started it all. And, yes, I wrote a book about that years ago. It is huge and it took me a long time to finish it. It is well worth the read. Most of big tech of today were teenie-weenie tech companies that were part of the miracle of Little Tech v IBM. There is an image of the book below. It is still available on Amazon because it is still current.

Doug McIntyre, writing for Wall St. Technology nets it out: IBM lacks all the critical measures of big tech success. Its cloud operation is relatively small, and cloud computing is at the core of the stock price improvement of most of its rivals. It has no highly consumer-focused products or services like Microsoft’s Windows, Apple’s iPhone or Amazon’s e-commerce products...

This is the story of how IBM helped today's technology millionaires and billionaires gain vast fortunes. This edition of the book is as current as the second edition. However, it has less pages because a section not in the original was added to the second edition. This edition is your best bet to learn the essence of the book without IBM's problem is that it has no convincing case that it can ever return to the top tier of American tech companies. In fact, its chance to do that lessens with each reported quarter.

What happened? The book tells you that one day, the government sued IBM and took away its marketing might and its fight. IBM now behaves like wimpy Republicans.

My book tells you how IBM became the best and how it lost it all. The survivors in tech should thank IBM every day for their $billions. IBM is now a politically correct organization with no fight left. That explains why their management is not in any way effective. The company would gain by bringing in a Donald J. Trump-like person as a business consultant.

That's why IBM is not considered big tech. The big tech companies would laugh if I had snuck IBM in among them. IBM is a paper tiger. No fight. Big Tech would eat their lunch. That's the difference. Big Tech needs to be put down like a wild dog. Making Larry Elder the Governor of California will be a great start. California companies are regulated by the state of California.

The Congress has brought in the big tech tyrants to the high chambers on numerous occasions but the Congress fighting big tech is like a toothless tiger. If they had sharp dentures, they would probably remove them so as not to hurt the opposition.

Moreover many think Congress is the beneficiary of too much largesse from big tech—especially the Dems. Why stop an abuse that benefits them? The R's are also on the hook to big tech or don't you think the problem would already be solved. Having the Governor of California on our side instead of fighting us like Gavin Newsom will go a long way.

I bet y'all that big tech tops the list of Congress's best donors.? Worse than that--if you had the right tools to examine which of our esteemed legislators are on the take, I am convinced that you would find all the big tech guys on most of the Congress's list to the tune of millions of dollars. If you heard me say that our Congress is on the take to Big Tech, I might not even deny it because I don't use their crappy social media anyway.

There are some in Congress who live on their salaries and are not diving and swimming off the yachts provided by benefactors in their spare time. The list of good members of Congress however, is diminishing as more sign up for the big tech gravy and graft train.

One of the good guys in Congress who is definitely on the people's side is Rep. Andy Biggs, R-Ariz. He has often criticized Big Tech's ability to suppress voices it disagrees with. He recently condemned Big Tech acts such as blacklisting Trump and de-platforming the right-leaning social media site Parler as nothing less than "dictatorial" efforts to suppress speech.

The conservative congressman is quoted as saying that he feared such gestures by Amazon, Apple, Google, Facebook, and Twitter would lead to more "bitterness" in public discourse. No kidding. Who do they think they are?

Tucker Carlson who lost a lot of conservative friends over Sidney Powell during the stolen election debacle, is working his way back into grace. He sees it 20-20. He recently said Big Business & Big Tech and Big Government collude. Meanwhile, the Big important Democrats under Biden are fully aligned and they are ready and able to crush all dissent.

TUCKER CARLSON: BIG BUSINESS, BIG TECH AND THE DEMOCRATS ARE FULLY ALIGNED AND READY TO CRUSH DISSENT

Here is a final quote from one of my favorites, Andy Biggs: “First of all, I condemn the [Capitol] violence. That was outrageous, and it was horrible, frankly. I have every confidence that those individuals are going to be apprehended and prosecuted. But [Senator Chuck Schumer] is asking for a declaration that they are domestic terrorists. He wants it done immediately to prevent them from getting on airplanes. I'm not sure that's the wisest thing. Certainly, we need to get after these people, arrest them, and prosecute them, and that would be appropriate .. You have a book deal from Josh Hawley being cancelled. That's part of the cancel culture. If you really want to bring unity and cool down the simmering embers that are burning right now, you don't pour more gas on the fire. That's what I think these people are trying to do ...

“When you start suppressing speech, first of all, it's dictatorial. Second, it violates our constitutional rights. But the third thing I would say is it causes people to go underground, and as people go underground,. you get more conspiracy type theories involved. It gets injected with more hatred. It gets injected with more bitterness

The way they're doing this, they're going to prevent discussions that make us all progress and solve issues. Instead, they're going to foment more problems, more discord by doing this. My opinion, they're trying to create a single party system, and that's wrong.”

So, what is the solution? If I did not have Larry Elder as Governor as my ultimate solution to big tech in California, I would hope that the Feds would do something but I think they are on the take either ideologically or through campaign donations. I don't trust Merrick Garland. I don't trust Bill Barr. Why can't we find honest people anymore. I do trust Governor Elder to solve the problem once we elect him.

Before Larry Elder takes over as Governor, consider these solutions: Big Tech needs to be broken up. A true and honest DOJ led by a patriotic American, which we know Biden will not support, must expand its antitrust lawsuits to include not only Google but Facebook, Apple, Twitter and Amazon and all of the rest who intimidate the public with censorship.

Why do the people know what to do and the Congress does not? Break up all those companies, just like the oil, railroad and phone companies of the past. They cause more harm than good. Get rid of all the wimps in Congress that do not care about the people.

Over time we have learned that 99.9% of Trump supporters did not storm the Capitol, yet they are being treated as if they did. The Democrats with their big media and big tech crooked allies are a formidable force. If they were reasonable, they would realize that if you disenfranchise 74 million people you will ultimately create 2 different Americas.

Maybe that is an OK solution. The Democrats would not be armed. There are not a lot of Army bases in New York City but they exist all over Fly-Over Country. It seems that with Biden wanting to take our guns, that may be where we are headed. That's Ok with me. My only regret is that getting there will most likely be a violent process. Who wants that?

Do you want to know why big tech is shutting down conservatives? One reason is because they can. Republicans are wimps and buckle over and the thought of a conflict. There is another simple answer. These liberal minded and Soros funded social media platforms enjoy the protection afforded by biased Democratic Legislators. When the fact-checking sources contracted by them have documented ties with the Democratic Party, they've breached the blanket coverage clause entitled for privately held companies.

Supposedly the public can use Twitter, etc. as their "independent" news sources. How can this work when these social media platforms limit, flag, censor, label, or ban conservative-minded users and related content. Come on Joe! What we really have is essentially a state run media here in the United States that Biden & company want us to consider open and free but of course it is not either.

Are the Democrats willing to even say this is a Republic based on a Democracy? Would that fact be censored because it is not Marxist enough? With all the guano we are getting, it is tough to believe that Democrats have any concern for the Constitution, which from almost day one has governed our Republic.

Are we no longer residing in a Democratic Republic, folks? Has it happened already? Only the Republic of China can be proud of what we have become. I blame CNN and the other lying media outlets. People are trained to believe the news but know enough to watch out for the fake lying news. That is the Rub. China and the bought and paid for politicians have shown us the way. If we choose to deny this truth, admitted to by the Biden regime, we are kidding ourselves. We must wake up differently than the woke crowd.

To net it out, the fact is that big tech companies such as Twitter, FB, Amazon, and Google are political machines working hard to destroy conservative thought. Their objective is to push the progressive / Marxist agenda. They deem anything other than their approved thought as misinformation.

A new people-supported platform needs to be created by our side, Its job would be to nourish free speech. 90 million of Trump's Twitter followers would join them and would then enjoy freedom to express their patriotic America-first ideas, thoughts, concerns, and emotions

We intrinsically know that is correct and the reason that big tech chose to influence the election in favor of Biden is that Trump was hard on China. Big Tech wants favorable treatment from China for one simple reason. Money— unless Hunter Biden sucked it all out of China already. The fact is that big tech chose China over America. Simple as that. For the Democrats, as long as there is a United States with a Constitution, there can be no New Marxist-based World Order otherwise known as globalism.

I don't really blame the Democrat electorate, though most of the Dems who love Biden IMHO, whom I have observed first-hand, are blockheads. They are not bad, they just can't consider that CNN is not telling them the truth. It is telling them their truth but not the truth. They have been brainwashed 24/7 by CNN and MSNBC propaganda. These "networks" serve the spiked Kool-Aid from the MSM every day and it is made with a Democrat formulary.

Casual inspectors (regular Americans) of the MSM such as CNN et al, cannot stay watching these airwaves for too long so long or they too would get infected from the disease being spewed every minute of every day. Check out the MSM folks but at your own risk. They lie. That is why President Trump referred to them as the Fake News Media.

Let me leave you with this thought that I recently got from a news commenter:

First they came for the conservatives, and I did not speak out— Because I was not a conservative. Then they came for the police, and I did not speak out— Because I was not a policeman. Then they came for the socialists, and I did not speak out—Because I was not a socialist. Then they came for me, a politician —and there was no one left to speak for me.

To be honest, I'm tired of every conservative prefacing every comment with "Of course I denounce the Capitol violence...." Look at what is happening to the country and our political system! Of course people are getting desperate. The same debate occurred prior to the Revolution - "let's be non-violent and petition the King one more time." But thankfully, there were the Patrick Henry's of the world who would rather die than end up a slave.

At some point, with the accelerating attempts by big tech and others to make conservatism a non-acceptable ideology, and to further marginalize those who believe in it, we may all be faced with a similar decision.

Most of the big tech perpetrations occur in their California Headquarters. It would be helpful to have a people's advocate such as Larry Elder working on the inside to stop the big tech abuses in California and across the nation.

Do we want to be the 21st Century version of the 1930's Jewish population under Hitler? The perennial question there is "Why for the love of God did they not fight back?!?!"

Democrats are America's party of National Socialism. In Nazi Germany, only the Nazi party was legal. Similarly, though rank and file Democrats do not want to consider it to be true, simply because CNN has not affirmed that it is true, the Democrats goal as is the goal of Marxism and progressivism and socialism, is a single-party totalitarian state.

If we stay quiet and do not have leaders like Larry Elder, they may get their way. Then what when the Constitution is canceled. If you get your news from CNN or MSNBC, and you wonder why you are unfamiliar with the material in this book and others, that, my friend is your answer.

CNN knows the truth. It just keeps it out of the news. does not know

One thing for sure. The Democrats are not advocates for free speech. Have you heard even one of them speak out against the big tech censorship of conservatives? Not only are they not for free speech; they want to take it away from you and me and all of us. I know you must be aware that they are doing it already through their big tech allies and elsewhere.

Think about this. They are harassing Ted Cruz to resign because he exposed them for it. This is how the Nazis took over Germany.

And the Dem electorate (normal Joes who never had to think before) seems completely oblivious. I have relatives and friends who think CNN and MSNBC always tell the truth. Those of us who are skeptical of government know how stupid that is but many believe every word that comes from the lying media.

Must the spiked Kool-Aid that the MSM serves up 24/7 be the only drink for conservatives?

Of course if we can wait, big tech is eventually going to get taught the big lesson. You know, the one that Ma Bell learned over twenty or thirty years ago. Somehow arrogance never really learns. Democrats are using the big tech folks as proxies to control and manipulate our information highway to a one way street for them only.

Americans know that Trump has never called for violence nor does he support riots or violence. Harris and the Democrat squad explicitly incited BLM/Antifa uprising in the summer of 2020. We all saw it. Big tech will punish you if you discuss the riots. Since non-government entities are linked to the current regime at the umbilical cord, they get away with it because they shut down all dissent. They are already powerful and without the voice of reason as president and even Governor of California, they will increase their power to the point of being untouchable even by an election. They are counting on it.

They now believe it is OK to violate Trump and his supporters right of free speech, while allowing Iran and other enemies to post hate and threaten speeches to Americans. We know intrinsically this is prohibited by our Constitution but they control the justice department and do not obey our own laws.

When Twitter and Facebook decided to ban President Donald Trump, censor The New York Post, and start erasing other people and institutions from their platforms, they started down a path which will have enormous consequences for them and for America. When Google, Amazon and Apple joined in taking down Parler, a conservative social media platform, they reached critical mass in proving that an oligarchical cabal was potentially seeking to control public dialogue for all Americans. Watch out. Larry Elder becoming the #1 man in California would be a great first step in solving that problem.

Even the American Civil Liberties Union, normally an opponent of conservatives, felt moved to have its senior legislative counsel Kate Ruane issue a statement that big tech was using its power to remove political speech is a concern for all Americans, saying: “We understand the desire to permanently suspend him (Trump) now, but it should concern everyone when companies like Facebook and Twitter wield the unchecked power to remove people from platforms that have become indispensable for the speech of billions—especially when political realities make those decisions easier for the perpetrators.

Certainly, what big tech is doing re: censorship is legal for now, but they may be awakening the sleeping giant. Most people will realize that they may be next and, generally, people on both sides don't like someone else filtering their news.

Conservatives say big tech companies, pressured by liberals and Democrat government officials, are using the Capitol attack to justify the unfair censorship of Republicans and the removal of platforms like Parler. It must be stopped. We need Larry Elder now.

Peter Navarro, Trump's top trade adviser, told the Washington Examiner that most Big Tech companies have been aggressively moderating certain violent content "as a way of building goodwill, with the Biden administration and Democrats on the Hill, in the hopes of fending off what, until recently, had been a bipartisan challenge to their collusive oligopoly."

Navarro claims that the combined powers of big tech companies, primarily Twitter, Facebook, Amazon, and Google, represent a "collusive oligopoly" that is weakening the First Amendment through content moderation.

Although most conservatives disagreed strongly with the Capitol attack on January and acknowledge the minor role some Republicans played in it, many see a double standard in how the content created by liberals and conservatives is censored by big tech serving as data and information gatekeepers.

"The abiding fact is that these platforms have been noticeably silent over the past six months of incredible violence perpetrated by Black Lives Matter and ANTIFA," Navarro said. The people are the ones that big tech is gunning for not the perpetrators such as BLM and ANTIFA. Watch out. You too may be censored or silenced soon if you sit back as usual and let George do it.

Conservatives said that if an individual or organization was aligned with a liberal agenda, then it was likely to face much less scrutiny from the tech gatekeepers. Liberal Marxists run the show. They must be stopped or the Constitution and America will not survive. Larry Elder is a great place to start in California. We may get only one chance to save the USA.

Navarro, who has always been one of Trump's staunchest defenders after the Capitol attack, said Facebook and Congress, the president and the Justice Department need to tell the bullies that their rule over the virtual and retail playground is over.

Newsom and the big techies

In a published interview, California Governor Gavin Newsom said big tech companies in his state could soon be "steamrolled" through federal regulations. Significant changes could impact them at the federal and state levels, according to Axios.

“Are they going to lead in that conversation and engage in it? Or are they going to get completely steamrolled? By current pace, they are going to get steamrolled,” Newsom said.

At the same time, Newsom stands behind a so-called data dividend concept that makes tech platforms pay those who live in California for money they make by selling their personal information. Larry Elder would shut down the censoring. According to the report, the current governor did not know how large those amounts should be.

“Your data is being monetized every single nanosecond,” Newsom noted. “And, to the extent it's been monetized and it's yours, I think in some way, shape or form, you should be rewarded.”

Who knows whether Newsom is on the donation take from big tech so he has to watch his Ps and Qs. Thus, he did not address whether Facebook and Google should be split into smaller pieces, per the wishes of Democratic U.S. Sen. Elizabeth Warren of Massachusetts and others. He did, however, call out Facebook for not taking down a video of House Speaker Nancy Pelosi from its platform. Newsom wanted to spare his relative Nancy the trouble of complaining “It's just fake – it's made up. It's doctored. It's done for political purposes,” he said. How does he know? Do you trust that Gavin Newsom will do the right thing. I trust that Larry Elder will.

The news comes as Warren introduced a plan to break up large tech firms such as Amazon and Facebook in an effort that could limit the growth of Silicon Valley. Warren wrote in a blog post in March 2020 that “today’s big tech companies have too much power – too much power over our economy, our society and our democracy.” Somebody will shut her up because she is off script.

Warren nonetheless continued: “They’ve bulldozed competition, used our private information for profit and tilted the playing field against everyone else. And in the process, they have hurt small businesses and stifled innovation.” She went on to explain that almost half of all eCommerce goes through Amazon, while more than 70 percent of all web traffic is through sites owned or operated by Facebook or Google. That is scary and not good for a competitive marketplace.

At a different scale, we could decisively move away from Amazon, Google and Microsoft’s control over cloud computing and imagine computing as a basic 21st-century utility. Initiatives such as the European Union’s Open Science Cloud demonstrate one model for providing a publicly funded and operated cloud infrastructure.

There’s no reason why governments shouldn’t provide citizens with free access to a public cloud that ensures privacy, security, energy efficiency and equal access for all. Our digital infrastructures however, should not be left in the hands of profit-seeking monopolies, but instead run democratically for the common good. Amen!

Something needs to be done to rein in the increasing economic and political power of big tech, and fast. But the instinctual liberal belief in the value of competition will exacerbate rather than solve the problems. We need to think bigger if we are to take back control of our digital lives. Larry Elder is a smart man and we can have him on our side very soon working for us.

A lot of these thoughts are original by Nick Srnicek, a lecturer in digital economy at King's College London and the author of Platform Capitalism

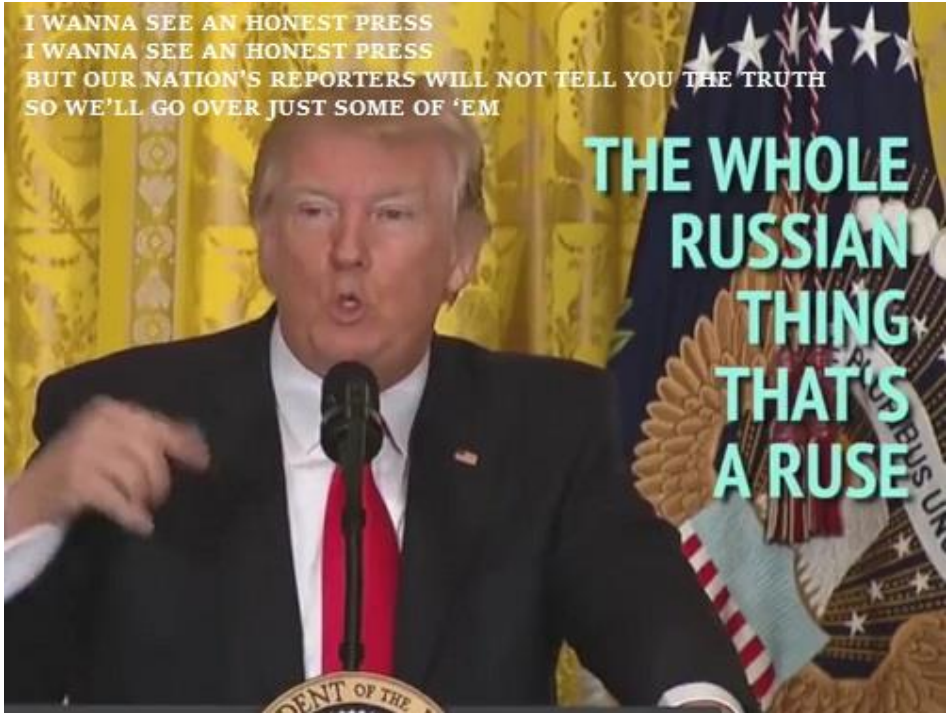

If you believe America is engaged in a life-or-death battle over its identity, in which the past looks golden, keep looking. How does the future look? Well, Biden's America looks like it has been painted by the Democrat elites for the elites and the rich, regardless of the impact on blue-collar lives or the middle class. When asked, Larry Elder always sounds like he is on our side because he is.

If you have not figured out Biden's America by now, H.L Menchen explained ahead of time where Biden came from:

On some great and glorious day the plain folks of the land will reach their heart's desire at last, and the White House will be adorned by a downright moron. H. L. Menchen

Is that Joe Biden? If not then who?

Chapter 12 The US Lacks an Honest Press!

Donald Trump more than likely will never be the governor of California but he would have made a great governor at the right time. Larry Elder will do the job when given the opportunity of our vote. Remember that, please.

Having fired so many people on the Apprentice, Donald Trump knows the media in the US does not consist of a bunch of choir boys. He found that it was worse than even he imagined. It was as if the Deep State had arisen from the depths of the dismal swamp of Washington just to torment him because Hillary in 2016, their favorite, had lost. They have persisted for the last four years in a full alliance with the Democratic Party.

Because he is a smart man, Trump saw the cabal of his political enemies as what they were and are. Foremost in his sights were the men who led the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the National Security Agency, and the Central Intelligence Agency. They ran a cryptocracy that was and somehow even with him as the boss, still operated under the cover of the founders' constitutionally established government.

Yet, they continued to engage in an immense conspiracy, a dark force seeking to destroy him. Though his supporters do not accept the flummery, there are too many Americans who do.

Trump and the bulk of his supporters and God for sure see the FBI's lawmen as subversive crooks and the CIA's spooks as similar to Nazi stormtroopers. All the worst that he could imagine, they have already done to him and anybody in his campaign and his family—anybody that they got close enough to torment.

The President in his day rightfully believed that they had tapped his phones, placed spies in his midst, and sabotaged him from long before his inauguration. The Democrats mocked him as being ludicrous while being the perpetrators of the very farce they were executing.

And, of course they are all joined in cahoots with a corrupt press; and, more dangerously, they were seemingly joined by their love of the “most honest man in the world,” Robert S. Mueller III, the FBI director from 2001 to 2013.

Mueller became the special counsel overseeing the criminal investigations of Trump and his cohorts. He is a man who acted as if he had dementia but had been given the power to take apart the Trump presidency and perhaps put him in jail ala Martha Stewart. Mueller who some say was once Republican, hired all Democrats to bring Trump down. Yet, in the end, he could not get the goods on the president but he took quiet pleasure in having tormented the president and his family and his team, nonetheless.

While I woke up most days during his term smiling that the President still was still on duty, working on my behalf, he woke up knowing there were those who would love to eliminate him from earth if they could. I am so glad that Donald Trump is a smart, strong, and courageous man. I see Larry Elder for California as having similar individual qualities.

Four years ago, we heard the chant “Lock her up!” but recently, especially in the late 2020 rallies, because the people now really knew and understood the president, they have actually stunned Trump. He was speechless the first time he heard his supporters chant “We Love You.” What a compliment to a man. I have many friends and relatives who fail to see the obvious and they remain their hate funk over Donald Trump. That, my friends is where the undoing of America will come from.

Why should Democrats believe their lying eyes? They would rather believe all problems stem from Donald Trump. Soon in California Democrats will be making up stuff t blame on Larry Elder. But hopefully by then, he will be the governor of the Golden State.

Meanwhile those who know and continue to study Trump admire him more each day. Donald Trump heard this complimentary phrase eventually at Rallies in NC & MI. It brought the president who is also a human being to tears. “We love you!” Think about that with an open mind.

Watching these rallies, even before he was infected with COVID, the president appeared to be caught off guard as the crowd chanted “We Love You!” It was amazing, He appeared his usual humble and he was sincerely appreciative of the gesture. This could be one of the best rally moments ever. I would say so.

Do we have a Fourth Estate today?

The intellectuals of the 18th and 19th centuries, especially Edmund Burke, gave us the notion of a Fourth Estate (the press and all other media) as a civil watchdog to keep an eye on those in power. It is very clear from the writing of Thomas Paine and others, who pointed out and also acted upon the idea, that we may have just cause to overthrow the state if it is seen to be no longer acting in our interests—i.e. the people’s interests—not the government’s. .

Larry Elder is our candidate for governor in the recall election in California. Short of an armed populace replacing a tyrannical US government by force, the founders expected shenanigans and that is why we have the three great processes, namely initiative, referendum, and recall. Congress has never implemented these at the national level but many states have all three. California obviously is familiar with Recall and we are hoping that the procedure results in a brand new Governor, Larry Elder.

As a point of note, in 1911, California voters approved the constitutional processes of initiative, referendum, and recall. Through these processes, voters can adopt a change in law (an initiative), disapprove a law passed by the Legislature (a referendum), or remove an elected official from office (a recall). All three would be helpful at the federal level.

Unfortunately in these dishonest times of our country, just like the Democrat controlled House tried to game the system with two Trump impeachments, Recall as a tool for Nancy Pelosi would have us all in the voting booth several extra times a year for sure. Remember the Democrat mantra: “Never let a crisis go to waste and if there is no crisis to be had, fake one.”

The fact that there is no honest 4th estate today is not trivial. For its own reasons, the press in the US has abdicated its role as the Fourth Estate. The natives are not yet restless enough to overthrow the government, but some think we were pretty close during the Obama Times. Now with Biden messing with the Constitution, and wanting more than anything to take our guns, and our right to free expression away, who knows what the future holds? Will we have another King George-like moment in our history. Freedom has a cost.

Not everybody knows that the founders were not thinking "hunting," when they explicitly added the Second Amendment to the Bill of Rights. Their reasoning was and still is what really drives Americans to actively defend the second amendment. Though hunting with rifles is important, it is not hunting that is the root cause of the drive by patriotic Americans to protect the founders' intention of the second Amendment.

There is the possibility and perhaps there is even a likelihood that at some time in the future, scoundrels would take over the government and would need to be dealt a blow that only an armed citizenry could deliver. There are those who think that today with the corrupt Biden administration that time has already happened. We may be inclined to ask this when we see all the formal dishonesty and deceit in the media and in the Democratic Party, especially the far left. How far can honest citizens be pushed?

The California recall and all recalls are to prevent the people from needing to take up arms against the government to replace tyrants.

The media today from all we can see, would be on the side of the scoundrels so it may not be as easy to defend as the founder's envisioned. In their worst day scenario, the founders would never have envisioned the Fourth Estate going bad on America.

Finding that the very scoundrels who have been driving our country to a perdition advocating Marxism, are also trying as hard as they can to take our guns away, make this notion ever more frightening and real. This is just another of the many reasons why Trump was elected and of course it is a reason why we all must back Larry Elder with prayers and contributions to help save our largest state from self-destruction.

Today, governments such as ours that make the claim to be acting in the “public interest” must face daily scrutiny of their actions. This is a necessary duty of an alert public in a democratic republic. Point of note is that the US is not just a democracy, it is a democracy with a Constitution of guiding laws making it a Democratic Republic.

The government must be called to account when overstepping the bounds of what citizens will support, or when taking actions that are clearly not in our interests. Today the press, unfortunately is in deep cahoots with the Democratic Party. It is as if the organizations merged at some time in the last ten years.

Other than some special Republicans such as Newt Gingrich, Rand Paul, Ron DeSantis, and Josh Hawley. The Republicans are always iffy about doing their job as conservatives.

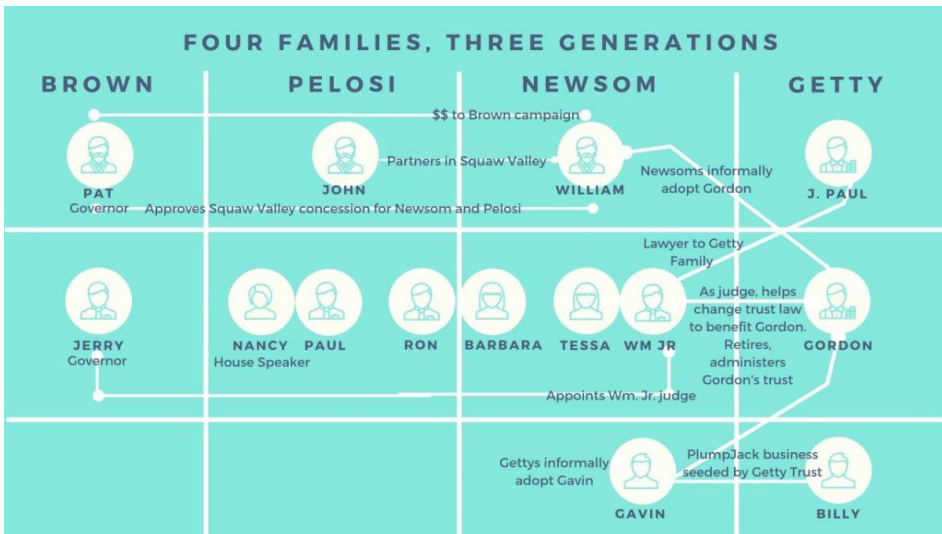

Josh Hawley is definitely not one of the Republican Wimps.. For example, Joshua Hawley was 13 years old, living comfortably as the son of a bank president, when his parents gave him a book about political conservatism for Christmas. He can say he is a lifetime conservative and mean it. Larry Elder is also a lifetime conservative. Remember that in California when you vote him in as your governor.

Some of us still remember that there was a time when the public could rely on journalists and the news media to do the Fourth Estate stuff on our behalf. This separation between the people and the state becomes more important when the economic interests of the powerful establishment elites so frequently dominate society.

Gavin Newsom is part of the elites—a family of California leaders that the Golden State is saddled with and burdened with them as they seek the satisfaction of their self-interests. Larry Elder is one of us, not an elite. He is a regular conservative with no elite family ties.

At calmmatters.com, updated on July 8, 2019, Dan Walters traced the roots of the four powerful elite families of California. Yes, the Newsom's are on the list. You may be surprised. Larry Elder represents a breakaway moment for California. It is time for Californians to break away from nose-in-the-air elites whose laws are meant for others and not them.

B

Check out the ties among the Brown, Newsom, Pelosi and Getty families dating back three generations. No wonder California is on the verge of collapse with mass exoduses happening every day to Texas.

Stop the need for an exodus, vote for Larry Elder for governor.

People do not like to be pushed around and the way the elitist Dems have loved their control in the middle of the pandemic is not good for liberty and freedom or our democratic republic.

In our modern world, the interest of “the nation,” can be deduced to be no more than the collective interest of those who wield political and economic power. That of course in 2016 gave rise to the silent revolution that put Donald Trump in office. The revolution had not yet hit California. The people were not enraged as they are now with the elitist views of Democrat candidates from the same first families.

We continue to experience this today at the national level as residue of the prior administration operating as the deep state as for four of the four Trump years, they had been interfering with a full and clean transition of power. Some worry that the voice of the people has been all but snuffed out by the powerful including the California big tech tacit consortium.

The people are mad as hell and are not going to take it anymore. Donald Trump’s first presidency is proof of that. When election fraud is eliminated, we will see Trump as president again. We can get a jump on good government by electing Larry Elder as governor in this recall election. 1

Today, at the national level the state is the executive branch of the ruling class. Biden is in charge but he gets his marching orders from a behind-the-scenes cast of characters that do not have America's best interests at heart. The same has been the case in California. Larry Elder will put an end to this in the Golden state

More and more, these "rulers," have stopped believing in a government of the people, by the people, and for the people. Former president Obama claimed to have been a Constitutional Law Professor. Yet he attacked the Constitution daily by taking many unlawful actions of which many are aware. Many believe he is behind a lot of the issues President Trump faced while in office.

They were more than alive during the Trump Administration as remnants of his administration continued their attempts to assault the Constitution, the one document that gives the people all of the rights in America. This is another big reason why Trump got elected.

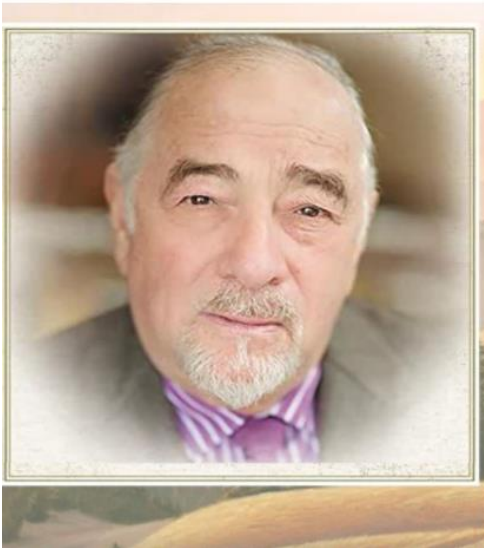

We the people are no longer willing to settle for a government of the government, by the government and for the government. Unfortunately, for eight years before Trump, it would have been difficult to tell. That is why those who follow what's happening expect the people to rally again for Trump soon for another four years. In the meantime we have a Trump disciple who can give California what it needs to break away from same-ole, same-ole. Larry Elder will be a great governor.

The news media – as the tribune of “the people” – has a major role as the Fourth Estate to constantly be on guard and alert to actions of the state, particularly when those actions may harm the interests of citizens. In recent years, the Fourth Estate has mostly been absent, serving as a wing of the Democratic Party.

Since the onset of the Trump Administration, the Fourth Estate has actually disappeared. President Trump nonetheless gets his messages out by talking on social media directly to the people or via press releases. He will do so with or without an honest press. Larry Elder may have to do the same when he becomes our new governor.

It would be nice if the press and the corrupt Democratic Party were not joined at the hip today. If it were not for a portion of Fox News, OAN, and Newsmax, and National Radio programs, and of course for the President's Tweets, and shows such as Rush Limbaugh RIP, Sean Hannity, Laura Ingraham, and Michael Savage, there would be little truth available in America today. Michael Savage gave up his radio show last year, and concentrates on podcasts. Was he ousted. He still chooses not to tell. There are very powerful people that have so much power they can do things that are very shameful but nobody will tell on them as our country weakens.

Joe Biden recently showed his disdain for conservatives by firing Michael Savage from a job he did not hold very long. In mid-June 2021, at the president's urging, Savage was removed from the Presidio Trust board which manages from National Park space in San Francisco. The news as reported is muted: According to Mother Jones, "Savage had received a letter [last Thursday] morning informing him that President Joe Biden was requesting his resignation; if Savage did not resign, he would be fired by the end of the work day." Thanks for showing your true colors again, Plugs.

"Plugs" was Rush Limbaugh's favorite nickname for Biden who had a bad hair transplant back when the craft was not perfected. Limbaugh recently passed away leaving a huge hole for conservatives. Other than being fired by Biden, few know what really happened to Michael Savage.

The story is than on September 30, 2020, Savage announced that Cumulus Media and Westwood One withdrew the terrestrial radio show from syndication on January 1, 2021, leaving only the podcast. Savage also stated he was under a gag order as to why the change was being made. Could it have been Big Tech? A lot of seedy things happen every day with Joe Biden's signature. What most do not know is whether he reads what he signs. In this case, he hates conservatives so we can presume this firing was well known.

Though the Fourth Estate for over 200 years was vital to the interests of American citizens, somehow, we have been able to do fine without them from Trump's inauguration in 2017 and we will continue as long as the Fourth Estate sees fit to abandon the people.

Because our foes are Donald Trump's foes, while the Trump and Pence campaign gained momentum before its victory in November 2016, emboldened Trump haters on both sides of the political spectrum – the Bush supporters and Clinton Supporters—got more vicious. You've seen them in action.

In response, the people of America, aligned with the values brought forth in the Trump campaign, fought back because there simply was no room to lose this battle against the dark forces, who for their own selfish interests were determined to keep the country weak.

And so, we have yet another reason for the 2016 Trump victory and another reason for the 2020 steal. The closest thing to another Donald Trump in the political spectrum is Larry Elder. Please remember that when you vote in California in September.

From the moment the TEA Party was born, and even now that the TEA is not as visible, Americans have been unwilling to take it anymore. While wishing and hoping that the official establishment would find its way and begin to represent the people in the way that got them elected, Donald Trump gave us a true hope that we could do it without the establishment.

Trump helped Americans once again feel that America is God's Country or as President Reagan would call it, a Shining City upon a Hill. During Trump's time as president, from the recent past when there were glimmers from empty promises that were never fulfilled are over. Americans demanded and got a responsive government as promised by Donald Trump. Yes, this too is a big reason why Trump got elected and why the process, though stolen in the end, was repeated in 2020.

Too bad our Congress has not gotten that full message yet. There was some weeping and gnashing of teeth as RINO Never Trumpers took off for home out of office for good after the 2018 elections. It is not nice to withhold support from President Trump. Unfortunately, it helped the Democrats take over the House. We saw the disregard Pelosi's House still has for most of America. We must send Nancy and her gang packing in 2022.

It is the reason why so many of us joined with Donald Trump and the Trump family and the Trump campaign to get rid of the wretched establishment swamp. With Trump's clear and refreshing messages about making America great again, we became his loyal supporters. We elected Trump because we trust him.

We continue to believe that Donald Trump will keep his word as have presidents of the past such as John Fitzgerald Kennedy and Ronald Wilson Reagan. I can still see the Five Trumps playing on the first team at both conventions, all believing in the Trump candidacy and in America and Americans.

When it was America's turn to believe in the whole Trump family, we elected Donald J. Trump as our president. We are still smiling though having Joe Biden as president is a reason to lose hope. However, America will not permit a sick and incompetent man to get reelected and Kamala is an even worse choice..

We the people have simply gotten sick of everything being for the Republican big shots. We are tired of the establishment elites such as the George Bushes, Jeb Bush, Carl Rove, Mitt Romney, the US Chamber of Commerce, and the many donors who think they can buy America simply by buying its weak, whiny, and wimpy politicians.

Meanwhile we see the Democrats of today brewing up one falsehood after another for the corrupt press to spread on an unwary accepting public that is too full of low information voters. Their objective right from the beginning has been to finish off the Trump team by telling enough lies that the people would finally believe them and acquiesce. They underrated those of us that see through their chicanery.

This will not happen this time in 2022 or 2024! Democrat constituents saw the vile of the dishonest Democratic Party leaders and Hillary Clinton first hand when they destroyed Bernie Sanders in a conspiracy of lies and double-dealing.

Then with Biden undoing all of Trump's popular programs such as Keystone Pipeline and Immigration and withdrawal from trade agreements, and then taking credit for the Trump vaccine, the people caught Biden Fatigue even before his first 100 days were in the record book. What a lousy president!

From 2016 onward, more and more Democrats left the Party to vote for Donald Trump in primaries across the country and then, they stuck with Trump as the only salvation for the country right through the general election of 2020 to today. That's why Trump got elected by a major majority and why he should have been inaugurated after his honest win again in 2021.

For now, we have to find some fresh honest Republicans to replace the uncompromising anti-American Marxist Democrats in Congress as well as a number of stodgy swamp Republicans.

A small establishment elite had been running the Republican Party for far too long. They rigged the game against the people and were accustomed to things going their way. The beauty of the Trump election was that these RINOs got caught flat-footed when their old tricks and their "ram it quietly down their throats," tactics simply did not work on Americans this time.

Why? It was because Donald Trump, the antitheses of the establishment had already entered the arena, and he proceeded to knock the elites over one by one. Along the way, he convinced the majority of Americans in a majority of the states that he was the real deal. And, so, we elected him President. The Trump honesty continues to be refreshing despite him being under continual attack by the most dishonest political class in US history. When he recovered from COVID, he wasted no time to again lead America towards a better life for all.

The rise of Trump was nothing less than a tidal wave. In their deluded minds, the establishment actually thought they could steal the nomination from Donald Trump and that their strategy would work just the same as it did against Ron Paul in 2012.

But Trump has a constituency, which includes you and yours truly that would not stand for it. And, so, he got elected in 2016 as a people's favorite. After the stolen election, he is poised again for battle in 2024 though he has yet to announce. Wouldn't it be nice if we could recall Biden?

I am reminded of Japanese Naval Marshal General Isoroku Yamamoto who, after Pearl Harbor confessed: "I fear all we have done is to awaken a sleeping giant and filled him with a terrible resolve." The attempts of the establishment elites to derail the Trump campaign were thwarted by a fed-up public.

We wanted Trump, period! We the public had gotten very sick of Republican broken promises. We lost trust in the Party elite leaders and the donors who no longer care about the people. And, with firm resolve, we won the 2016 presidential election for Donald Trump. Though Big Tech does not permit our messages to get through, it is a fact that unprecedented election fraud stole the election from President Trump.

We know we must stock the Congress with real conservatives and Trump supporters in 2022 and make sure all states have voter laws to protect the people. Democrat attempts to steal elections permanently with the Corrupt Politicians Act must be fought with all the muscle we have.

Yes, Donald Trump sure did manage to awaken the silent majority of Americans who previously either did not care or simply did not bother to vote. Some in the past just shrugged their shoulders and accepted that the system was rigged and that all of the little men in the world—all of us insignificant citizens of America, could not make an impact under any circumstances. That is not true and it never was. Even the all-powerful Democrats cannot overcome the enthusiasm of a charged-up American people.

Trump is clearly the difference. The people rose up and are taking our power back. That is why Trump got elected and why he will be back for four more in 2024. In the meantime Republicans must get election fraud convictions in the battleground states. California is again in play because of Larry Elder and the poor job Gavin Newsom did when he got to steer the Big Ship California.

Trump has always been for the non-establishment brand of citizen, who simply depends on honest representatives to keep our democratic republic operating smoothly. In this regard, he is like Larry Elder and of course vice versa.

He is the perfect alternative remedy for candidates who do the bidding of Bush's and Clintons and their ilk, who somehow have become richer and richer while the ordinary people have become poorer and poorer. Donald J. Trump became the perfect alternative for leaders who had permitted America herself to be turned into a debt-ridden shadow of its once great self.

Unfortunately, because of elitist propaganda from both Republicans and Democrat members of the establishment, in full cahoots with the corrupt main-stream media, the fourth estate, full of journalists that have forgotten American History, the American public chose a quiet revolt.

We hear it all and are disgusted and we are lined up against those still willing and eager to put forth their hatred against Donald Trump like as if it is the common opinion. It is not the prevailing opinion. Trump got more votes than any incumbent in history, and he clearly outpaced Joe Biden who needed corrupt machines and corrupt procedures and corrupt people to pull off his win.

We voted for Donald Trump against all those lies and the daily soap opera and we are ready to support him against all odds.

But, let's not forget why we are in this book. Larry Elder is California's Donald Trump. Let's not forget that. He is a rare breed of cat and like Trump, he loves America and especially his home state of California. He is in the race to win so he can lead the people of the Golden state to many years of victories and real prosperity. Elitists need not apply.

Chapter 13 The Best Governor in the United States

Ron DeSantis is a powerful man with a powerful physique. He needs all of his strength to do his job. Governor DeSantis fends off arrows continually from jealous blue state politicians and the main-stream media. They can't beat him in deeds so they try to kill besmirch him with their angry deceitful lying words.

Because he serves the people in the fashion of Donald J. Trump, a rare official for sure, and because he makes all Democrats look silly if not plain old bad, the main-stream corrupt press hates him almost as much as they hate Trump. I like to say that Ron DeSantis, the well-loved Governor of Florida by most Floridians, will one day be president of the United States of America. Look for DeSantis in 2028. Would he not make a great VP in 2024?

Larry Elder is destined to be as good a governor as Ron DeSantis using the Trump-proven methodology. He is just at the beginning of his official career in California. How can we measure his success. It is easy to measure DeSantis by counting the deflected arrows. I hope he makes it for an awful lot of years. I wish Larry no ill but It would be nice if he were so feared by the bad guys as DeSantis and Trump that he needed a few shields to protect him from all the arrows tossed by the corrupt media and the angry Democrats.

I do not believe Larry Elder has presidential aspirations but he is an awful young looking 69-years old. I would like to see him in California for two terms at least. Though he will get a lot of work done immediately, some of the work will naturally take longer as the state has been going south for over thirty years. Nonetheless, Larry Elder is destined for great success in California just like DeSantis in Florida. That would give America its two sunniest states on the southern corners on which to build our new great America again. Now it is up to us to vote him into office

Larry Elder brings the needed style of honest government to California—in the same way that Donald Trump brought good government to the country and Ron DeSantis brought it to Florida. You can count on it. . Moreover, because he is of the same mold ad Trump and DeSantis, he will soon attract the main stream corrupt press and they will hate him with the same passion as they hate Ron DeSantis. Then, we will know he has truly arrived as their most feared candidate.

Larry Elder's grades as governor of California will be similar to Ron DeSantis's grades as governor of Florida Governor DeSantis passes all positive expectations with an Outstanding Exceeds grade. In many ways he is firm like President Trump, He uses his own mind to make major decisions, and he is for the people. How can you not like him. He is like a younger Trump. Larry Elder will govern California as Ron DeSantis governs Florida. Gavin Newsom on the other end of the country in California, is just the opposite. His soon to be replacement Larry Elder is cut from the same cloth as Governor DeSantis and he can't wait to help the state regain its national prominence.

Whereas in almost all counties in Florida, the state is open and thriving, kids are in school, and masks are optional, Gavin Newsom's California is closed. Kids cannot attend school because Teacher Unions support Newsom and his Critical Race Theory crap. Besides that Newsom implemented one silly regulation after another with which small businesses must cope. Many cannot come back after COVID because in many ways, Newsom still has the state in a semi-lockdown. How about masks for two year old's?

Oh, Newsom definitely gets his share of the booty from big tech and he takes care of them back. Big tech rewards friends like Marxist Gavin Newsom while spitting on Conservative thought and they de-platform free thinkers who see the Marxist progressive orthodoxy for what it is—the death of America.

Ron DeSantis took on Big Tech in Florida and so far he is winning. Because Big Tech is headquartered in California, Governor Elder will have more of an opportunity to thwart the corrupt practices of these billionaire monopolistic oligarchs. DeSantis and Elder are destined to be brothers of a common cause – eliminate the bad effects of Big Tech censorship and let freedom reign.

On May 24,, 2021, Florida Governor Ron DeSantis made a South Florida stop on a Monday morning at Florida International University for a bill signing that he says protects Floridians from big tech censorship. It does more than that. It shows all US governors that they can fight and win the battle with Big tech.

Before he signed legislation to curb big tech censorship, DeSantis said these words and then proceeded to sign Florida Senate Bill 7072.

“This is a big problem, we don’t even need to get into the election interference that we see from Silicon Valley on major issues that deserve robust debate, Silicon Valley has been acting as a council of censors, they cancel people, when mobs come after people they will pull them down, they shadow ban people which created partisan echo chambers, and honestly, they are some of the major reasons why this country is divided for doing what they are doing. And the worst part about this, Silicon Valley thinks they know better than you. So their power up to this point has effectively been unchecked and they used this power to impose their orthodoxies and their ideology on our public square. This is not how a free society should operate,”

The new law enables the state to fine large social media companies $250,000 a day if they remove an account of a statewide political candidate, and $25,000 a day if they remove an account of someone running for a local office.

DeSantis, who made the issue one of his top priorities during this year’s legislative session, described Florida as a “trailblazer” and said the bill would protect free speech.

DeSantis said big tech companies are controlling accounts to remove content that doesn't suit their ideology. Larry Elder is in the process of figuring out how his administrative authority over the Big Tech monopolies can help him make it even more painful for them to remain anti-American. Ron DeSantis has created the model. Because big tech lives and breathes in California, Larry Elder will be able to give them their just comeuppance.

I heard someone say just the other day that Newsom's regulations make so much sense that they appear to have been crafted by a body part and they appear to come directly from a well-used spot in the center of his two back pockets if you get my drift. OK, I said it. You got me.

Newsom is the guy that issued a no inside dining law and then was caught within days eating inside at a fancy restaurant with $1000 a plate entrées. Photos obtained by a station in Los Angeles show the governor in the company of multiple lobbyists and they raise questions about how truthful Newsom is in still claiming his dinner was outdoors. What's a little lying to save your butt?

Besides no school for kids and hypocrisy in dining laws, California has nothing to offer the modern public. Whereas Florida hosted the Super Bowl with fans in the stands, Newsom forced the Rose Bowl out of California and the game was played in Texas where life is almost as good as in Florida. What rule that he imposed did this? No fans were allowed. Are you kidding me?

While Floridians were open for the Thanksgiving Day festivities and home dinners and hugs, they were also open for Christmas. I was there in February and folks, Florida is so well practiced, it appears they have been open for a long time. This is how Larry Elder's California will be after we vote him in as the Recall Election winner.

Whereas Floridians have been celebrating holidays with family, Californians had to get out the videos from the prior Turkey Day. Now, the only ones praying to the God of meatless meals were the Turkeys and they got their wish. Newsom cracked down on the holidays with a few regulations directly from you know where. Try these on and see if they fit your family—especially in the Northeast with this year's great weather.

- “All gatherings must be held outside.”
- “Gatherings that include more than 3 households are prohibited.”
- “As much as possible, any food or beverages at outdoor gatherings must be in single-serve disposable containers. If providing single-serve containers is not possible, food and beverages must be served by a person who washes or sanitizes their hands frequently, and wears a face covering.”

He's talking about your backyards Californians. He has so little to do, he is regulating back yard barbecues with family. They say there was a run on miniature Turkeys after this last regulation was squeezed out, but there was no positive verification either way.

California Governor Gavin Newsom tightened COVID-19 Restrictions on many different occasions. In a Yo-yo approach following the wind and his whims, Newsom ran the state like a personal toy. In 40 counties, he squeezed the life out of the businesses and the people.

His big league comments are even trite: “We Are Now Moving Backwards Not Forwards.” In early November, Newsom’s regulation machine was hard at work. Despite his many splendorous lockdowns, nothing has helped his numbers. Meanwhile Floridians and Georgians and Texans were enjoying plain old freedom, a politically incorrect outmoded, overrated notion according to Democrat officials across the state and the country. Voters are voting with their feet and moving to welcoming states. California’s population is going down for the first time. In my book, they call that cause and effect.

Yes, Mr. Regulation, Gavin Newsom himself, announced more restrictions on freedom. He noted that despite his best efforts, the number of COVID-19 cases had doubled in the one week, with 10,968 new cases on Monday. He said that was the fastest rate of rise the state had seen during the pandemic. He did not suggest it had anything to do with his no school, stay inside your homes, and lockdown orders.

Newsom wants you to mask your two-year old’s. In pre-school, he demands it. Humph! JAMA Pediatrics recently published findings from a randomized controlled trial in Germany that assessed carbon dioxide content in air inhaled by healthy children wearing face masks. They did an experimental assessment of carbon dioxide content in inhaled air with or without face masks in healthy children. It was a randomized clinical trial. Normal levels of carbon dioxide in open air are approximately 400 particles per million (ppm). The German Federal Environmental Office permits up to five times normal levels of carbon dioxide concentration (2000 ppm) in closed rooms, with higher levels considered unacceptable.

The results are bad but somehow because it is not their kids, Marxists on message are not sounding any alarms. Results of the German randomized controlled trial found that mean carbon dioxide levels inhaled by children wearing face masks were 6-fold higher than acceptable levels set by the German government, with mean concentrations approaching 14 000 ppm. Is this good for kids spending that much time in masking situations. Of course not. Where is the outrage. One might think somebody is getting an extra allowance for using up vaccines and face masks. Can it be? Is money important?

Newsom said that there had been a 48% increase in hospital beds occupied by coronavirus patients in the past two weeks alone. The number of ICU patients with COVID-19 had risen 38% over the same period. Newsom: “We are now seeing community spread throughout the state of California.” Would somebody please inform the soon-to-be ex-Governor, “ Lockdowns don’t work Mr. Newsom!”

The governor revealed that the acceleration of counties moving back through the state's tiered reopening system that was foreshadowed by California's Health and Human Services Secretary, Dr, Mark Ghaly was being implemented. "This is no longer a marathon," said Newsom, "this is a sprint." Clever verbiage. Hopefully their PR guy is getting paid all he or she deserves

Meanwhile Ron DeSantis in Florida has not only helped make America great again, he is cutting a path through silly regulations to get it done. How does he do that? He has made Florida great again by enacting principles that favor the people of Florida even when the corrupt press is against him. He knows how to fight and he wins like President Trump. Now that Newsom is being recalled, he has few friends. The great leadership of Larry Elder will be modeled after Trump and DeSantis' proven methodologies. I can't wait.

On a Monday just a few weeks ago in February 2021, the California Governor, Gavin Newsom showed up a half an hour late to his own party. He was scheduled to speak about Covid-19 at a news conference at 11:30 am,. He didn't appear until noon. That's unlike the governor, but this is an unusual time for him.

Newsom is the secondary reason we wrote this book and of course the first reason is our desire to have Larry Elder, an attorney by degree, replace him in California. The people are doing well enough themselves on the recall and the recall is set for September 14, 2021. It is going to happen. Make sure you vote.

We have surely explained in this book that the boyish looking and acting governor is the target of a statewide recall effort, which was declared successful with the recall on the election schedule in September.

Activists worked to put his removal to a vote say that they garnered over 2 million of the estimated 1.5 million signatures needed. They are happy with the results but the proof is in the pudding. Newsom must be defeated and Larry Elder is the best person for the job.

The buzzards are already circling around Newsom with the scent of his demise in the wind. They hope to get a piece of the carcass. For example on the same Monday in February, a new Republican challenger, businessman John Cox, who Newsom beat handily in the last election, declared his intention to challenge the governor in the proposed recall election.

Fox also noted that Newsom has just a year left in his first term and Cox says that he will run against him even if he makes it through the recall and he chooses to seek a second term in 2022. Don't worry folks about Trump taking over. Newsom is gonzo. The decision was all Trump's. He deferred to other great men such as Larry Elder.

I really don't think we will have to worry about Newsom running for President any time soon.

Ron DeSantis President or Vice President

I think that under all circumstances, the Governor of Florida should run for state reelection in 2022.

So that there is no mistake about my preference for president in 2024. It is Donald J. Trump, hands down. My preference for vice president in 2024 is Ron DeSantis. I have not heard many offer this as a thought; but I would bet the leaders of the DeSantis supporters would love getting their guy into the second chair in the US Government. He would simply have to wait through Trump's last term and then would be the chosen candidate in 2028.

Yes, folks, this is a great deal for the people. It would be just four years from then that VP DeSantis could and would ascend to the first chair. He would be elected President in 2028.

How could he lose other than by a stolen election? But that can't happen! It better not but quite frankly I do not see RINO Republicans getting on the clean elections bandwagon in a big way so far at least. Do you? Making sure elections of the future are fair is a big deal.

Moreover, with four years as VP, DeSantis would be the logical choice for the next eight years after that—giving the Republicans or the Patriot Party or the American Party or whatever conservatives are calling themselves by then, the top prize.

That means , twelve full years of conservatives running the country without a Democrat having a prayer. All we have to do is go with Trump and DeSantis and get the RINOS out of the House and US Senate. The Democrats under Biden seem to be making that easy for us.

Donald Trump has not announced his future plans but Trump was #1 again at CPAC just a few weeks ago. Matt Gaetz R-Fl pulled no punches in suggesting that DeSantis could run for president in 2024 if Trump is out of the picture. Trump will not be out of the picture so my message to Republicans is stick with the guy that “brung you” to the dance—Donald Trump. No waffling or wavering. He brought in more honest votes than any candidate ever. Make sure with those numbers he wins in 2024.

Though we would all welcome Governor DeSantis to the presidential table, most of us are hoping for Trump’s continued good health and energy and an assurance of clean elections so that we could make him the 45th and also the 47th President of the US.

Matt Gaetz, R-FL thinks the world of his governor. There is no doubt about that. He should. He is joined by many Floridians in his admiration. Gaetz made the remarks Sunday (February) during one of his interviews on Fox News in which the governor responded to reports of President Biden’s administration potentially implementing travel restrictions around Florida due to the state's [low] coronavirus cases. Biden hates all strong and successful Republicans. All Democrat leaders are cheats or they would be conservatives.

It's time for another H.L. Mencken quote: "The most dangerous man to any government is the man who is able to think things out... without regard to the prevailing superstitions and taboos. Almost inevitably he comes to the conclusion that the government he lives under is dishonest, insane, intolerable."

OK, one more to describe our times:

"The whole aim of practical politics is to keep the populace alarmed (and hence clamorous to be led to safety) by menacing it with an endless series of hobgoblins, all of them imaginary." You may read more great quotes such as this at //www.brainyquote.com/authors/h-l-mencken-quotes

Press secretary Jen Psaki (Socky), is quickly gaining importance enough as Biden's voice that soon she will have an indisputable nickname which I heard today. Well, she nonetheless ameliorated the press and Floridians telling them that no final decisions had been made. DeSantis did not take it lying down.

In Trump fashion, he immediately sent a volley back at Biden telling Fox host Maria Bartiromo that such a move by the Biden administration would be "unconstitutional" and a "political attack against Florida." Biden should not be messing with the Governor of Florida as he is well outmatched.

Gaetz later in the same day told Fox that he was “proud” of DeSantis, adding that “the truth is that the Biden folks know that if Donald Trump is not the candidate in 2024, the leader of our movement will be Ron DeSantis.” No argument here for sure.

Gaetz said that “people see that in Florida, businesses are opening, unemployment is dropping, home buying is increasing, and that type of prosperity is very attractive to people who are having to endure lockdowns in other parts of America.” For example, in Pennsylvania with a major league decrease in COVID-cases, I still cannot find a bar with a barstool available. Governor Wolf has taken the stools off the legal list. Who told him he could do that? DeSantis is the opposite. Freedom, Freedom, Freedom. Let me decide.

Trump delivered his second lengthy CPAC address of 2021 to show he still has it. The date was July 11 to wrap up the CPAC session. Trump looked svelte and ready for action. It was two hours long and brilliant. Somebody described it as a double album of his greatest hits. The crowd did not want to let Trump go because it felt so good. It did not take Trump long to begin firing volleys. Here are a few of the Trump goings-ons.

1. Trump comes out on stage, claps, and then bear-hugs an American flag]

2. “What we did in 2016 – the Election, we call it, with a capital ‘E’ – it’s never been done before.”

3. “I was probably more of a conservative than a Republican. People just didn’t quite understand that. They didn’t understand it.”

4. “How many times did you hear, for months and months, ‘There is no way to 270?’ You know what that means, right? ‘There is no way to 270.’”

Trump was right on

The review showed that former President Donald Trump delivered a blistering rebuke of President Biden, Big Tech, critical race theory, the media and other targets during his fiery keynote speech at the Conservative Political Action Conference on Sunday.

From the stage in Dallas, he called Texas conservatives some of his “staunchest and fiercest supporters,” and he vowed to continue fighting for the GOP.

“I’m thrilled to be back in the heart of Texas,” Trump told the crowd. “For a year before the election, the fake news media said Texas was in play. It’s in play. You know what ‘in play’ means, like it’s close.

“And they were right, except it was only in play for me,” he said. “For me and you, actually.”

I can listen to the Trump campaign style speeches for hours and hours. The people at CPAC loved him. He is still the man. I sure miss him as do many as president.

Ron DeSantis was at CPAC also, but VP Pence was not there and I am happy about that. From my perspective Pence is not welcome among conservatives after messing with the battleground states despite their pleas during the stolen election.

Stolen Election?: Democrats say: “fair and just;” Republican cowards surrender to Democrats Paperback – January 12, 2021

by Brian W Kelly (Author)

The facts show that Democrats believe nothing unless CNN & all the liberal media outlets tells them it is so. Have you heard one true story about election fraud and corruption executed by the bad actors in the corrupt battle ground states of Arizona, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Wisconsin, Nevada, Georgia, & Wisconsin? Yes, I know the picture on the front-cover is not 2020. If you found that, you will enjoy the book. Surely, unless you get your news from CNN, you know that in December, the State of Read more

Folks, this is a different country without Trump at the helm and it is not different in a good way. Reports are that 55% of the people do not like how Biden things are going. Even stolen elections! See the Amazon ads for my latest books above and below. See the Amazon ads for my book on Ron DeSantis—best governor in the nation below.

Here we are working on our seventh month after the most corrupt election of all time. We now know that we are stuck with an inept Congress made powerful by voiceless RINO Republicans. Conservatives like you and I are talking about how to stop Biden from ruining the country. Heck if Biden knew how to stop himself from ruining America, he might do it himself. But he has no clue. And I am not so optimistic to think he or his administration would care even if they were awake. Or is it WOKE!

Ron DeSantis: The Best United States Governor: Ron DeSantis is to Governors what Donald Trump is to Presidents—The Best! Paperback – February 21, 2021

by Brian W Kelly (Author)

amazon.com/dp/1951562534

Ron DeSantis is to Governors what Donald Trump is to Presidents—The Best! Some say Governor Ron DeSantis is the best governor ever. Others admit he is the best current governor in the United States of America. Why? Like Trump, DeSantis has more than delivered on the promises that he made to Floridians upon taking office in January, 2018. He tackles the issues that are important to Floridians and the well-being of the state, and does it Unfortunately spirit is not as high as it should be in the Republican ranks because the RINO Republicans in Congress, but for a few, are not even making a peep about disagreeing with EO (Executive Order) Joe. Mitch McConnell has re-positioned himself as the guy everybody thought he always was—a piece of guano. Trump had given the Turtle a nice facelift, dressed him up and gave his wife a job but Mitch scraped off the makeup to find his true Democrat RINO skin underneath. He then lashed out at real conservatives who support our last real president.

Why would Mitch McConnell do such a thing. Yes, I have the answer. He is the soulless reincarnation of a new form of a Tin Man. Mitch has a heart because he needs it to pump blood to stay alive, but he has no soul because lousy people can get by without a soul until they die. Mitch McConnell is a stinking lousy person. There, I said it.

Crowds shout “We Love You” at Presidential Rally

Like many of you, I love President Trump and I liked him better when he was officially in office. The next election for President is a bit more than three years away, but I think when we solve the election problems in the battleground states and everywhere else, Florida's governor, should run only if President Trump decides not to run on his own. It helps to repeat that message. We are not dead. We are very alive and Governor DeSantis is a prime mover in our efforts to gain the top spot again. See what I think of the supreme Court below:

SCOTUS ELIMINATUS!: No country needs a Supreme Court that refuses to hear critical cases! Eliminate SCOTUS ASAP!

Many just recently came to the conclusion that we really do not need a do-nothing Supreme Court. Save budget $$ now & send them home. The Supremes may have been afflicted by a Big Tech

As I pointed out, DeSantis would be a great VEEP. From my perspective Pence is too risky to trust. I don't even want him at CPAC. I can't stand looking at him. He was not there when we needed him. He had his chance. See my book, Stolen Election—Amazon ad above—for the facts on Pence's choices. Pence failed us as VP. Who needs him now? Ron DeSantis would be a great one term VEEP and then he would definitely be our elected president.

Gavin Newsom's recall is almost assured as I write this paragraph more than 2/3 of the way through July 2021. The recall in the nation's most populous state is becoming a marquee contest with national implications. It will be watched closely as a barometer of the public mood heading toward the 2022 elections, when a closely divided Congress again will be in play.

I am not talking about it much in this book but don't forget about primarying RINOs, and anybody who did not support our guy, Donald J. Trump. We must win back the House and the Senate in 2022. Get rid of Republican and Democrat chaff in Congress in 2022. There is a good chance that will happen because there are a total of 55% or more American who do not like what the Democrats are doing to the country. How could they? The people are finally sick of Democrats.

The new Governor of California in 2022 will have a year under his belt and can do some effective campaigning in California and other key states for House and Senate seats.

California voters had it worse than the rest of the country with a know-nothing governor. Californians are weary of restrictions that have cut them off from jobs, classrooms and friends, combined with anxiety from the continuing threat of the coronavirus. Yes, Larry Elder will address this head on and he will win the day for Californians.

This is a formula that is expected to create a volatile mix at the ballot box. Newsom was on the edge of the diving board and just a few more recall votes and he is off the board. Those votes came in and many more. Now, he is running for a seat he already holds until September 14. Good days are coming to California again.

Newsom is also still in the process of weathering a public drubbing for dining out with friends and lobbyists at a San Francisco Bay Area restaurant last fall, while telling residents to stay home. Just a little hypocrisy among friends?

While younger voters lean to the political left, that doesn't mean they reflexively vote Democratic. For example, many young Bernie Sanders followers didn't support presidential candidate Hillary Clinton in 2016. Younger people like my kids are looking for a candidate who "speaks to them and seeks to involve them in a campaign." They see no value in WOKE, BLM, or ANTIFA. After all, most of them have college degrees.

Since the recall is on. The election will occur on September 14, 2021. The good news for Republican hopefuls is that there were cautionary signs in the November election that the state might not be as rigidly Democratic as registration numbers suggest. My advice for all Republicans is to get out and support Larry Elder. He is the one true conservative who can beat Newsom Don't deny the Republican Party the opportunity for this governorship. Get out now. Give up Endorse Larry Elder.

Of course Republicans would have to stop a California-style steal. By that time, the people of California will be so disgusted with Newsom and Biden that they will assure a clean election.

Name Recognition; Name Recognition...

When the recall election takes place, things will seem strange. First of all, anybody could run. Forty-six candidates made it to the election and are bona fide candidates on the ballot. Considering there was limit on the number of candidates who can run to replace an official on a recall ballot, that is not too many. There were about 100 when Gray Davis got beaten by the Governorator.

Whoever gets the most votes wins—even without a majority. So it's entirely possible that someone could be elected in a recall while winning less than half the votes. That person will be Larry Elder.

Yes that's all there is to it. The recall election will present voters with two questions. The first will ask whether Newsom should be recalled from the office of governor. The second will ask who should succeed Newsom if he is recalled. A majority vote is required on the first question for the governor to be recalled. The candidate with the most votes on the second question would win the election. Arnold Schwarzenegger, a Republican won in 2003 with 48% of the vote.

Like I said a few times but repeat again just for effect. That's actually is what happened in 2003, when then-Gov. Gray Davis was recalled by 55% of voters. More than 100 people ran to replace him, carving up the votes and allowing action movie star Arnold Schwarzenegger to win with 48.6% support. If Trump were on the ballot, he would come to such an election with the absolute most name recognition in the country and would carry the state no sweat.

Though well known in California as a long-time talk-show host, Larry Elder does have a tougher climb because Newsom will have his share of supporters to counter Elder. So, do not vote for any other Republicans or Democrats. Every vote counts. Make your vote count for California's return to gold.

Why is it great that Larry Elder is in the race? Being Governor of California for Larry Elder would be sweet pre-revenge for what the big tech guys have in store for him in the campaign period. He may be de-platformed for some "Trumped-up reason."

They will treat Elder like they treated "The big bad orange man." After being shut down by big tech social media, Larry Elder as governor would have the power and could wield it to shut down big tech in Silicon Valley, California forever. Not having a favorable government in Sacramento would disable big tech. Elder could split them up into parts manageable by even a Biden Administration until Trump became president again.

He could do lots of other great things in California for the state and for the country as a whole. For example, he could make the Golden State a clean state again where the state plant would no longer be human FECES. I might even try to become a Cal resident myself just to vote for Larry Elder for Governor. Think about it.

Let's save Ron DeSantis (who definitely one day will be elected President of these United States) for after we exhaust the notion of what happens between now and 2024. California has a big play in the deal.

It was just months ago that the notion that a liberal progressive favorite like Newsom could or would be ousted by voters in such a heavily Democratic state seemed farcical. These would be the same Democrats who put him in office in a landslide two years ago would – an impossibility? But politics is me first and when the people are upset, anything can happen, and allies can become opponents overnight.

Of course there was the pandemic and Newsom made many confounding decisions on vaccines and reopening businesses and schools to which otherwise reasonable people, on either side of the ideological stream would have objected in normal times. Well, they objected so strongly that Newsom will be recalled by numbers that will be high enough to bring him down soon after this book hits the stands. The people are joining together – Republicans and Democrats are ready to stop the first-term Democrat Gavin Newsom from completing his time in office. That deserves a round of applause for all the people of California.

This is not a book about California's current Governor per se, but as we showed in the early part of this chapter, he is the very opposite of Governor DeSantis. Californians have noticed the difference. At the very least, Californians want teachers in the classroom—something which Florida has and has had and something which Larry Elder will demand. And, Larry won't have your two-year old's masking up in one of his mandatory edicts.

Newsom, as noted several time, is a member of the Pelosi California Oligarchy. He only had to act reasonably to finish he term. His progressive / Marxist tendencies prevented him from being reasonable so he is being recalled.

One bad move after another and Newsom saw his popularity tumbling as soon as he forgot about the fact that his constituency is made up of American people who are not asking to have their lives destroyed by political hacks. When Newsom upset his base, they reacted and so now there is a recall election that appears on track to making a real person the next governor of California—Larry Elder.

Somebody has to win the recall election. More than likely it will not be Newsom because most of the people already hate his decisions and his hypocrisy. California voters have become very weary of restrictions that have cut them off from jobs, classrooms and friends, combined with anxiety from the continuing threat of the coronavirus.

Pundits and experts conclude that this explosion of temperaments could create a volatile mix at the ballot box. Newsom also has been put down by even friendly press for his public drubbing when he dined to the finest with friends and lobbyists at a San Francisco Bay Area restaurant last fall, after admonishing residents to stay home

If there is a winning formula for Newsom, so far, it has not appeared. There is now an ever-expanding fraud scandal at the state unemployment agency from his leadership during the pandemic. It is under even closer scrutiny and is receiving lots of negative PR.

The reason Newsom is on the block is very simple. The electorate is very angry and very frustrated. They get nothing from Newsom and so they are being driven by emotion, not facts – even though the facts are not so good either.

His advisors remember well when former Democratic Gov. Gray Davis was ousted in a 2003 recall election and replaced by Republican Arnold Schwarzenegger. Newsom has reason to worry and Larry Elder has reason to take the reins as it would give him a chance to make things right in 1/50th of America while Biden is destroying the other 49/50.

Republicans have not won a statewide race in heavily Democratic California since 2006, but the party senses shifting ground. Candidates for Newsom's seat quickly lined up, hoping to tap into the forefront of the angst over Newsom's pandemic rules that have reordered everyday life for nearly 40 million people. Few Californians find Newsom a revered word. Larry Elder right now tops that list. My recommendation in California is to abandon the other Republicans and stick with the best you got—Larry Elder for Governor.

Before Newsom, Californians were looking for the truth. What they got was a scenario in which California had become the land of broken promises. It is what it is.

It's notable that the former president reportedly has a major interest in the runoff of the Newsom Recall election. I am sure he wants Larry to win California would be a great state to take advantage of Trump's effectiveness as a national leader. Maybe with a statewide Recall Election going on, the residents will learn about the great things Trump accomplished in four years. This would help them know that in 2024, another four great years would begin for American and Americans.

This time Californians would be in the mix as with Newsom's time as governor, the Golden Staters learned that being in a woke state can keep you awake at night. They are looking for change. Larry Elder will change California and Donald Trump will change America again. Won't that be nice?

When the former president eventually endorses a California Recall Candidate, it should be Larry Elder, who is the best candidate for Governor of California short of Trump, himself. Americans will be pleased with their vote for Larry Elder for governor. Trump's endorsement will be gravy.

We can do it! Go California

Larry Elder as governor will be the best selection for the Golden State since Ronald Reagan.

Amen!
